AMS - Atomos	MISS	0	0	0/0/0	0.00	0.00	1
Atomos has entered voluntary suspension pending the audit outcome of its first results. Management cited resourcing issues across operating jurisdictions as the reason for delay. A trading update suggests to Morgans ongoing softness in trading conditions. Given increased uncertainty in the retail environment, management explained the business may not return to profits until FY24. The board has appointed a corporate advisor to strategically review the business. In the meantime, the broker awaits further clarity and places its rating and target under review.
EPY - EarlyPay	MISS	0	0	1/0/0	0.52	0.28	1
After reviewing first half results from EarlyPay, Morgans notes outsized exposures and losses have disappointed and it will take time for investors to rebuild confidence. A before tax loss of -$7.5m including expected credit loss provisioning of -$14.1m was reported. The company has provisioned -$9.6m against the RevRoof exposure and improved procedures and policies have now been implemented. Excluding RevRoof, underlying profit was $1.6m for the half, which included a further -$4.5m of additional provisioning. The target is slashed but the broker retains Buy, noting the potential for corporate activity.

Company	Result	Upgrades	Downgrades	Buy/Hold/Sell	Prev Target	New Target	Brokers
29M - 29Metals	IN LINE	0	0	0/2/3	1.60	1.57	5
29Metals reported earnings in line and no dividend was declared, as expected. Management retained FY23 production guidance, however Macquarie (Sell) has lowered its forecasts by -15% due to a higher depreciation estimate and highlights earnings remain vulnerable to changes in copper and zinc prices. Net debt also blew out 33% over the period, compared to Macquarie's forecast. Citi (Hold) welcomes the focus on production costs but awaits confirmation the company can deliver on its plan going forward. No Buys reflect a full valuation.

<tr><td colspan="8">a2 Milk Co's result showed strong growth led by China label infant formula and ongoing market share gains. But management left FY23 guidance unchanged, and this is where disappointment kicked in. Cashflow was materially weaker than expected. Citi (Sell) expects earlier upside risk to medium-term earnings margins has somewhat dissipated since October, with the company failing to reiterate commentary that upside could drive margins into the low-to-mid 20s. FY23 guidance now comes with a note of caution on the China infant formula industry. Credit Suisse agrees upside risk is difficult because the Chinese infant formula demand rate of decline appears to have quickened. The broker's modelling now suggests a further -10% decline in demand in 2023, and Credit Suisse is concerned the China re-registration process could cause market disorder. The broker downgrades to Sell.</td></tr>

<tr><td colspan="8">Accent Group's first half net profit beat Citi's (Buy) estimate and the interim dividend was way ahead of forecast. The broker is impressed by the trading update and believes the success of Nude Lucy will be important to underpin confidence in Accent Group's new strategy. There are 15 trial stores already open and these are generating positive earnings and the roll-out will now be accelerated. Strong comparable growth has continued into the second half and store roll-out targets have been upgraded. The result met Morgan Stanley (Hold). The broker expects the market will be cautious about the outlook amid a challenging macro backdrop. No earnings guidance was provided, as per usual.</td></tr>

<tr><td colspan="8">First half revenue for Adairs came in ahead of forecasts on better than expected sales at both Adairs and Focus, but earnings missed on a one-off logistical cost and an underperforming online business. Management has cut FY earnings guidance. Cost reductions have been initiated in order to underpin profitability amid prospects of a weaker consumer environment. UBS (Buy) forecasts FY23-25 earnings margins below pre-pandemic levels. Brand image continues to affect Mocka following problems with delivery and products in the second half of FY22. Customers returning to stores has also affected online demand. Brokers nevertheless do not find value demanding.</td></tr>

<tr><td colspan="8">project has been hit with further cost blow-outs, resulting in no dividend being declared. Management stated increased cost savings will ensure that adequate returns are delivered. UBS (Hold) expects margins will be underpinned by better contract terms and stronger prices, but this should be broadly offset by slowing demand. Citi notes management changes that include a semi-permanent CEO, potential for a capital raising, and an uneconomic product mix change, all add to increased risk for the company, before downgrading to Sell.</td></tr>
<tr><td>ABY - Adore Beauty</td><td>MISS</td><td>0</td><td>0</td><td>0/2/0</td><td>1.83</td><td>1.20</td><td>2</td></tr>

<tr><td colspan="8">First half results for Adrad were just slightly in advance of Morgans' expectations, with a 7% increase in revenue and underlying earnings falling by -8%. The latter was due to higher costs for raw materials, labour, occupancy and freight. Both divisions registered greater earnings growth than the analyst expected. The company designs and manufactures heat exchangers for industrial applications. It also manufactures, imports, and distributes automotive parts for the aftermarket in A&NZ and for OEMs globally. FY23 revenue and underlying earnings guidance are maintained.</td></tr>
<tr><td>AIS - Aeris Resources</td><td>MISS</td><td>0</td><td>0</td><td>1/0/0</td><td>0.85</td><td>0.83</td><td>1</td></tr>
<tr><td>AMX - Aerometrex</td><td>MISS</td><td>0</td><td>0</td><td>1/0/0</td><td>1.24</td><td>1.09</td><td>1</td></tr>
<tr><td>AGL - AGL Energy</td><td>MISS</td><td>0</td><td>0</td><td>3/2/0</td><td>8.74</td><td>8.84</td><td>6</td></tr>
<tr><td>AIM - Ai-Media Technologies</td><td>IN LINE</td><td>0</td><td>0</td><td>1/0/0</td><td>0.76</td><td>0.70</td><td>1</td></tr>
<tr><td colspan="8">Ai-Media Technologies's first half result was broadly in line with Morgans' expectations. It's felt profits will flow more easily in future now the inflection point in the transition to a SaaS business has passed. Margins for the SaaS business are nearly double the legacy business. Management noted “artificial intelligence is strengthening the company's moat in many areas”. The broker lowers its target after allowing for the result and an increase to its risk free rate assumption.</td></tr>
</table>

AIC Mines released a "slightly softer" interim result, but Ord Minnett doesn't think investors will pay a lot of attention (if any) given the low base on display. The broker suggests more attention will be given to whatever the Q3 has in store. Ord Minnett is banking on a 20%-plus lift in production for the quarter.
AGI - Ainsworth Game Technology	BEAT	0	0	1/0/0	1.20	1.30	1
Ainsworth Game Technology results were slightly ahead of Macquarie's forecasts. Earnings continue to improve which the broker believes is driven by a recovery in operating conditions. The underlying business is profitable and there is significant operating leverage to higher volumes. Overall, Macquarie believes the stock is cheap.
AIZ - Air New Zealand	IN LINE	0	0	2/0/0	0.00	0.88	2
Air New Zealand continued to report a recovery in both domestic and international bookings in the first half earnings report, which reached 95% and 75% of pre-covid levels. The result was largely in line with forecasts. The company did not declare a dividend, yet with the rapid resumption of profitability, the board will now consider distribution in August. The balance sheet was strengthened with a fall in net gearing and Macquarie thus expects dividend payments will resume. Ord Minnett notes that while air travel capacity remains constrained, demand is strong which is leading to more expensive tickets, full capacity planes and exceptional profitability.
ART - Airtasker	MISS	0	0	1/0/0	0.60	0.80	1
While most metrics from Airtasker's first half result were pre-released, Morgans points to some softness for posted tasks from falling consumer confidence due to the macroeconomic backdrop. As a result of the weakened consumer, the broker lowers its gross marketplace volume and revenue estimates by -2-5% across FY23-25. The company's core marketplace nevertheless grew organically, with GMV and revenue rising by circa 24% year on year. Early-stage offshore markets are thought to be gaining traction.
AQZ - Alliance Aviation Services	MISS	0	0	3/0/0	4.58	4.60	3
A messy set of numbers from Alliance Aviation Services due to accounting changes still left a soft result, although timing issues were also to blame. FY23 guidance was actually a slight upgrade compared to Morgans' forecast, but fell well short of Credit Suisse. While a material increase in wet lease activity and utilisation during the Dec quarter provides a strong trajectory into the second half, the stock is under a takeover offer from Qantas, albeit pending ACCC approval, which is not guaranteed.
AKE - Allkem	MISS	0	0	3/0/0	16.59	17.50	3
Macquarie calls Allkem's result solid but Citi and UBS claim misses. Management confirmed guidance released with the recent production report that strong lithium hydroxide demand should underpin spodumene prices. The downside is a cut to spodumene production guidance at Mt Cattlin and delays to Olaroz Stage 2 and Sal de Vida stage 1 in the first half. Macquarie believes pricing guidance more than offsets. UBS is consoled by the absence of further bad news by way of delays and changes and observes the company enjoys a strong net cash position. UBS also advises expansion plans remain ambitious (albeit execution risk is largely incorporated into the share price). Citi notes market sentiment has been weak following news flow from China but fundamentals remain positive.
ALU - Altium	BEAT	0	1	1/2/1	36.34	39.60	4
Altium's first half revenue growth was a beat in constant currency terms, and stronger than expected margins led to a beat on earnings. Subscriber growth was weaker than Macquarie (Hold) estimated amid headwinds from the macro environment and the exit from the Russian business. Subscriber growth could be boosted with China reopening into the second half. There are also potential subscription upgrades which, combined with lower costs, should drive stronger margin expansion longer term. The company reiterated full year guidance, and guided to an increase in subscriptions growth over the second half. UBS is cautious on the medium term outlook as we are yet to see true impact of 10-15% price hikes in December on new seat sales and subscription renewal rates. Altium is trading at an average 40% premium to high-growth SaaS and Australian tech peers despite delivering below-peer margins and free cash flow. UBS downgrades to Sell.
AWC - Alumina Ltd	MISS

		1	0	2/1/2	1.50	1.50	5
Alumina Ltd saw profit booked in the first half of 2022 wiped out by a loss in the second, missing forecasts. A 16% rise in the average alumina price was more than offset by a near -30% negative impact from higher production costs. No dividend was declared. 2023 production guidance is below forecast, but spot alumina prices have provided positive momentum for an earnings upgrade and costs are expected to normalise gradually. Ord Minnett believes the company is in strong financial shape and well-placed to ride out a downturn, but retains Sell. Credit Suisse (Buy) points to strong spot alumina prices boosting June-half margins, and cost pressures waning. Citi lifts its alumina price forecasts and upgrades to Hold.
AMA - AMA Group	IN LINE	0	0	0/1/0	0.16	0.26	1
AMA Group's result was broadly in line with UBS but the second half requires a large skew to meet reaffirmed FY guidance. Cash will be sufficient to fund the second half recovery, which reduces the risk for a potential capital raising. Management noted material staffing or pricing uplifts are not required to get to guidance. AMA still faces multiple challenges to achieve FY24 guidance, the broker believes. Labour scarcity remains the key challenge and pricing negotiations with Capital SMART must be successfully negotiated. Valuation is not overly demanding and AMA offers potentially an interesting recovery story, UBS suggests, but with a lot of heavy lifting and moving parts in FY24.
AMC - Amcor	IN LINE	0	1	0/6/1	17.60	16.86	7
Amcor's result was largely in line with forecasts ex tax and corporate cost impacts. The company maintained its FY23 earnings guidance, but later suggested it expects a result at the lower end of the range. Management was cautious, pointing to weaker consumer demand and pressure from destocking. Amcor posted the weakest volume growth in over three years. The stock is undoubtedly defensive, but not immune from volume weakness resulting in slowing earnings growth over the course of FY23. Morgan Stanley breaks ranks and downgrades to Sell on that basis, but also warns the stock may be left behind in a risk-on trend.
AMP - AMP	MISS	0	0	0/2/1	1.20	1.22	5
AMP delivered a disappointing miss on underlying earnings, driven by uncontrollable costs and lower wealth earnings, Morgan Stanley (Hold) reports, while wealth outflows stepped up in the final quarter. AMP is guiding to flat controllable costs in FY23, which suggests to Citi (restricted) even this will be hard to achieve, and hence would stymie earnings progress. At least management at AMP will likely focus on reductions in costs for FY24 and beyond. UBS' (Sell) concerns relate to the outlook after Collimate sale proceeds have been returned. The cost base is still too large and the divisions are not a natural fit, suggests UBS.
ALD - Ampol	IN LINE	0	1	2/2/0	34.37	35.29	4
Ampol's first half earnings were largely in line. De-leveraging post the Z acquisition has allowed for a generous 70% payout plus a special dividend, providing a highlight. The results reflected the Z Energy acquisition although the main feature in profit growth were extraordinarily strong refiner margins. Should refining margins remain higher for longer, UBS (Buy) can see upside to its current forecast for an around 6% dividend yield. Macquarie (Buy) points out last time when corporate returns were at the current level, the share price was $35-38, and the business is now larger and far more advanced in convenience retail. But Ord Minnett downgrades to Hold on valuation.
ANN - Ansell	MISS	0	0	0/5/0	28.55	25.12	5
Ansell's result missed forecasts due to a margin squeeze in Industrials and weak Healthcare sales, for which destocking and discounting in Exam/Single-Use and Life Science outweighed surgical growth. Currency movements didn't help either. A fall in single-use gloves has concerningly spread into Life Sciences gloves. Management has downgraded FY23 earnings guidance by -8%. The company expects continued growth in the Industrial segment but further weakness in Healthcare, but Citi expects destocking to ease in the June half. Much depends on the global economy and the risk appears to be to the downside. Hold ratings suggest the stock is fairly priced.
APA - APA Group	IN LINE	0	0	0/5/0	10.82	10.45	5

APA Group's first half result revealed better energy infrastructure earnings were offset by higher corporate and lower asset management and energy investment, driving an in-line result. FY23 dividend guidance is unchanged. APA continues to invest in the transition to transmission, renewables and alternative energy as well as internal IT systems. Macquarie points to the strength in the company's balance sheet with scope to add more debt. Ord Minnett continues to anticipate a robust outlook for APA as it benefits from CPI-linked tariffs and generates attractive returns from upgrades and expansion of its gas transmission networks. The main negative in the result was the 30% increase in corporate costs, and the broker expects further upward pressure in this regard amid increasing regulatory requirements and expansion into new fields.
APM - APM Human Services International	BEAT	0	0	4/0/0	3.41	3.35	4
APM Human Services International delivered a beat on profit and revenue growth of 39% year on year, with a particularly strong performance in North America driven by new Canadian contracts and Equus. The A&NZ profit margin was weaker due to higher interest costs, the Workforce Australia ramp-up and a greater earnings contribution from lower-margin Allied Health, Credit Suisse notes. Management is guiding to a 54% second half profit skew. The broker expects earnings in second half to improve given the full year benefit of Everyday Independence, Equus acquisitions, Ontario and RSVAP contracts, plus improved Allied Health & Workforce Australia, partly offset by decline in Restart volumes and higher net interest costs. Morgan Stanley feels the beat was overshadowed by weak cash conversion, with the company reporting a conversion rate of 59% in the half compared to 84% in the preceding period. The company guided to an improved 85% conversion rate in the second half, which it expects to retain moving forward. UBS believes the company is well position to win new contracts and offers an undemanding valuation.
APX - Appen	MISS	0	0	0/1/1	2.53	2.38	2
Appen's 2022 result was weaker than Macquarie (Hold) anticipated and first half guidance implies further downgrades. The focus of the new CEO will be on setting up Appen for structural growth that evolves from data to industry vertical AI solutions and eventually AI products. An increased loss is forecast for 2023-25 yet the CEO's briefing has bolstered the broker's confidence regarding a medium-term recovery. Morgan Stanley (Sell) found both results and guidance for 2023 to be underwhelming. The company is anticipating its first half of 2023 to be materially lower than the first half of 2022, which Morgan Stanley feels supports its thesis that Appen's human based model is less economical than automated solutions.
ARB - ARB Corp	IN LINE	0	0	1/3/1	31.80	32.18	5
ARB Corp reported in line with pre-released numbers. Ord Minnett (Buy) expects margin pressure should ease in the second half although sales growth may be constrained by capacity limitations in Australia and ongoing problems in the US. But improvements in vehicle sales in Australia and a strong order book should support growth throughout the remainder of FY23. Macquarie (Hold) thinks the main risk is the degree of growth or otherwise in ARB's key export markets and with major customers such as Ford and Toyota. Citi (Sell) sees a reasonable amount of execution risk around ARB's US strategy pivot, warning stores in the region may need to stock more lower-margin third-party brands to appeal to customer product preferences and trade at lower margins for some time to allow the company to maximise opportunity. Generally, there is uncertainty given the recent slowing in Australian aftermarket sales growth, a difficult macro environment, challenges with a major retail partner and lower export revenue.
ALG - Ardent Leisure	MISS	0	0	0/0/1	0.55	0.60	1
Ord Minnett was somewhat disappointed with Ardent Leisure's first half normalised earnings and reduces full year expectations. Still, the broker acknowledges top-line momentum is building. Plans to vary the cost base shows Ardent is keen to maintain operating efficiency. Ord Minnett now incorporates the likely value uplift from the ~$50m expenditure planned for rejuvenating the Dreamworld property. Admissions to the theme parks are currently up around 70% from the pandemic-affected period, although still well short of the numbers prior to the October 2016 tragedy.
ARF - Arena REIT	IN LINE	1	0	1/2/0	4.08	4.13	3

<tr><td colspan="8">Arena REIT's first half was sufficiently in line with forecasts and FY guidance is reaffirmed. The ACCC has launched an inquiry into childcare pricing, which may lead to limitations and downside catalysts as the year progresses, but Macquarie is comfortable with the REIT's growth outlook and returns from developments should increase from here. Citing a defensive balance sheet, a solid earnings growth outlook and resilient income, Macquarie upgrades to Buy. Credit Suisse (Hold) notes portfolio operations remain solid and the REIT is well positioned in an inflationary environment due to CPI-linked leases. Despite rental growth, tenant occupancy costs remain stable. Credit Suisse sees Arena as a high-quality REIT given its exposure to the Childcare and Healthcare sectors, its strong balance sheet, prudent management team and earnings growth profile.</td></tr>

<tr><td colspan="8">A mixed result from ASX led to a mix of meets, beats and misses, but none dramatic, and weakness in IPO and futures markets in the period had been previously flagged. Guidance for FY23 was unchanged for opex and capex although additional CHESS costs will be incurred over the second half and future years. Importantly, the ASX will look through this when paying dividends. News on the CHESS replacement is the key focus now for brokers beyond any considerations of trading volumes. Macquarie (Buy) remains confident in the long-term growth outlook, but recognises the lack of catalysts between now and December when guidance is due on the next steps of the project. Credit Suisse (Hold) believes there is increased likelihood that debt will creep onto ASX’s balance sheet in coming years, hence the potential for the introduction of a DRP.</td></tr>
<tr><td>ALX - Atlas Arteria</td><td>IN LINE</td><td>0</td><td>0</td><td>0/3/1</td><td>6.62</td><td>6.38</td><td>4</td></tr>
<tr><td>ATA - Atturra</td><td>BEAT</td><td>0</td><td>0</td><td>0/1/0</td><td>0.80</td><td>1.01</td><td>1</td></tr>
<tr><td>AUB - AUB Group</td><td>BEAT</td><td>0</td><td>1</td><td>3/1/0</td><td>27.73</td><td>29.81</td><td>4</td></tr>
<tr><td colspan="8">AUB Group's first half results were pre-released and guidance upgraded for FY23 just a week ago. But that's recent enough to acknowledge a strong beat driven by Australia Broking and an "excellent" performance from Tysers, Credit Suisse (Buy) suggests. AUB expects rate increases in H2 to be in line with the first, with the acceleration in property rates being especially helpful given the portfolio mix. Execution was particularly strong suggesting robust sustainable run-rate growth even before the benefit of premium rises. UBS (Buy) observes broker margins are under-earning and the company is playing catch up to peers. Still, the strong second half contribution embedded in guidance appears ambitious to the broker. Ord Minnett had been wary that reinvestment in the offering would limit some of the margin expansion over the medium term, and downgrades to Hold on valuation.</td></tr>

FY24 earnings but retains Buy. Morgan Stanley lauds the quality of the infrastructure business, which has been underscored by resilience during covid, as well as a quick return to activity post the recent flooding, but pulls back to Hold on valuation. Operating expenditure remains under pressure and Citi (Sell) envisages potential downside in the near term.
Supply chain pressures weighed on first half results for Audeara, resulting in a slight miss against Morgans forecasts. Expenses associated with an expected ramp-up in sales and new product development also weighed. A key short-term catalyst is progress on the Amplifon rollout, with international sales currently lagging the analyst's expectation. A Speculative Buy rating is retained.
AD8 - Audinate Group	BEAT	0	0	3/0/0	10.07	10.12	3
Audinate Group's result solidly beat forecasts. Were it not for chip supply constraints and a pull-forward of Dec quarter sales, the result would have been even better. The sales backlog remains at record levels, while supply is likely to remain constrained in the second half other than improvement for Ultimo chips. Normalisation of the supply chain will provide a future growth tailwind. Software revenue disappointed, again due to supply chain issues which hampered customer's manufacturing efforts, but the outlook here is also improving. Gross profit margin pressure should ease in FY24. Retained FY23 guidance provides conviction on delivery of results, while further adoption by the industry of the company's video offering should provide share price catalysts over 2023.
AMI - Aurelia Metals	MISS	0	0	1/1/0	0.28	0.28	2
Aurelia Metals result for the first half met Macquarie (Buy) but was weaker than Ord Minnett (Hold) expected. Macquarie likes the improvement in the company's net debt level and makes a minor increase to FY23 earnings forecasts. FY23 production and cost guidance are maintained. Receiving the Development Consent for Federation (expected in March) and a funding solution to bring it online represent the near-term catalysts. Liquidity is a key risk, along with the uncertainty regarding the federal funding package. Ord Minnett looks to Aurelia Metals' March quarter to obtain confidence that cash flow issues have turned around.
AZJ - Aurizon Holdings	MISS	1	0	3/2/1	4.12	3.89	7
Aurizon Holdings posted a resounding miss of both earnings and dividend forecasts. Coal volumes were down -8% and Network volumes -2% due to prolonged wet weather, which also increased costs. Costs relating to the OneRail acquisition were significantly higher than assumed. Aurizon did announce a series of Bulk contract wins, and cited some 200 further potential opportunities. Increased capital allocation suggests management is chasing growth, increasing investment in Bulk. Given earnings declined year-on-year despite a five month contribution from the One Rail acquisition, Citi (Hold) expects investors to question if capital may be better directed to dividends. Morgans sees the potential for increased dividends beyond FY24, and upgrades to Buy. Credit Suisse (Buy) believes market concern over sustainability of the coal business has left the stock undervalued, but Morgan Stanley retains Sell.
ABB - Aussie Broadband	IN LINE	0	0	2/0/1	3.04	3.12	3
Aussie Broadband posted a miss, a meet and a beat from three brokers. A minor increase to FY23 earnings guidance has followed, despite lower revenue guidance. Reduced revenue guidance is driven by slower delivery of lower margin residential mobile and white label broadband connections, with higher earnings supported by improved CVC cost management and a slowdown in staff growth. The company is enjoying a benefit from Aussie Fibre deployment, Credit Suisse (Buy) notes. Connected buildings to the network have more than tripled to 288, with an additional 73 being provisioned, and a further 1400 identified for connection. But with the company's run-rate continuing to slow and with industry competition looking to remain intense, Morgan Stanley (Sell) expects Aussie Broadband is entering a slower growth phase.
ASB - Austal	IN LINE	0	1	1/1/0	2.47	2.30	2
Austal posted $40m in underlying profit. Macquarie (Buy) points out this turns to a -$2m loss when accounting for T-ATS provisions (towing, salvage & rescue ship for US navy). The result was pre-warned and FY guidance has been maintained inclusive of provisions. Support revenue and margins nonetheless grew solidly in both the US and Australia, and Austal continues to invest in expansion. Work on Expeditionary Medical Ships is progressing with an expected award in March 2023. The upcoming Australian Defence Strategic Review should provide plenty of opportunities. Austal continues to look for other opportunities to diversify its revenue streams. Citi downgrades to Hold on valuation.

ACL - Australian Clinical Labs	BEAT	2	0	2/0/0	3.80	3.95	2
Having last week reassured investors margins would be in line with pre-covid levels, in its first half result Australian Clinical Labs suggested business as usual margins look to be at or above 11% in the second half and beyond. The update has given Citi more confidence in the company's ability to reach targeted low teens earnings margins moving forward. Underlying earnings, excluding one-offs, came in slightly below Credit Suisse' forecast. Margins were nevertheless maintained on solid cost control despite an -83% decline in covid-releated revenue. Australian Clinical Labs has outperformed Healius on all metrics, Credit Suisse notes, achieving a stronger earnings performance due to its Unified Laboratory Network, where uniform equipment and systems across all high-volume central laboratories has enabled greater agility in managing the labour cost base over varying demand. Both brokers upgrade to Buy, implying a beat, on stronger margins.
AFG - Australian Finance Group	IN LINE	0	0	0/1/0	2.11	1.67	1
Australian Finance Group reported in line with Macquarie but pressure is building. While the AFG Securities loan book grew in the half, settlements moderated in the Dec quarter and the outlook is being impacted by the level of competition in the mortgage market. AFG Securities lodgments fell -66% year on year and settlements -60%, the broker notes, while AFG Home Loans lodgments were down -64%. The business is capital-light, Macquarie points out, and the balance sheet is robust. Valuation is supported by trailing commissions. Key risks remain book growth and margins.
AOF - Australian Unity Office Fund	BEAT	0	0	0/1/0	1.78	1.79	1
Australian Unity Office Fund's December-half result outpaced Ord Minnett's forecasts, due to higher net property income. The broker observes the highlight of the half were successful asset sales at or above book value, but also suggests the deployment of those funds to the refurbishment of remaining properties will create a near-term brake on growth. Ord Minnett advises the company is considering declaring a special dividend in the June half.
AVG - Australian Vintage	MISS	0	0	0/1/0	0.77	0.60	1
Morgans reports Australian Vintage has posted a weak first half result, largely due to tough operating conditions in the UK. Increasing inflationary costs, in particular for sea freight, weighed on the outcome as did an increase in marketing spend (-$2m). Earnings and profit of $5.4m and $2.3m compared to the broker's forecasts of $10.2m and $5.8m, respectively. Subject to currency, agricultural risk and planned asset sales, management guides to FY23 earnings in line with FY22. This guidance implies to the analyst FY23 earnings of around $12m, assuming a circa $15.3m benefit associated with a sale and leaseback transaction and a -$1.5m impact from unfavourable currency.
ASG - Autosports Group	BEAT	0	0	3/0/0	3.05	2.90	3
Autosports Group's first half results were ahead of forecasts and guidance on stronger revenue. Management appears confident in the usual seasonal skew to the second half and there will also be a five-month contribution from the Motorline acquisition. The company grew its order bank 14% over the half, and momentum carried into January with the company experiencing its largest January orders ever, up 13% year on year. Citi expects to see consensus revenue forecasts increase. Macquarie expects consumption of luxury cars will come under pressure but the company's customer base does not yet show signs of weakness. UBS expects luxury demand will hold up better than volume and there is greenfield expansion on offer to provide organic growth, but believes the market may be hesitant to re-rate automotive dealers, given a view that margin should eventually normalise.

Short-term risks include the impact of price rises on volumes, further weakening of the macro environment and challenging comparables through to the second quarter of FY24. Ord Minnett believes it will be difficult for Baby Bunting to meet profit guidance over the short term, and downgrades to Hold despite longer term potential. Morgan Stanley sticks with Buy.</td></tr>

Yet supply chain improvements are starting to show, current trading is solid, and guidance is for a slightly improved second half. Guidance reflects a more cautious macro-outlook in the Retail and NZ segments. With the Vic distribution centre operating efficiently, performance should improve through 2023 as activity levels in the core aftermarket businesses remain robust. Citi (Buy) anticipates the medium-term upside generated by Bapcor 's "Better Than Before" transformation program will outweigh any shorter-term performance risks. While cash conversion is weak, Bapcor is confident this will revert in the second half on inventory reductions. As is the case with many transformations, things get a little harder before they improve, Credit Suisse (Hold) warns. The broker believes that is the case for Bapcor over the next 12 months.</td></tr>

Citi (Buy) believes the current share price implies no new growth or development in both East Coast gas and Western Flank oil drilling -- a scenario it considers unlikely. A 30% increase in farmgate prices has been the key culprit during the period. Other financial metrics have all been negatively affected as a result. UBS remains concerned about an already highly competitive milk procurement market. Recent falls in global dairy prices suggest milk prices may have peaked. Ord Minnett observes there has been no demand destruction but this remains a risk, yet upgrades to Lighten from Sell. Morgans feels Bega Cheese is over the worst of recent headwinds and upgrades its rating to Add.</td></tr>

Macquarie (Hold) continues to envisage upside to margins in the second half and anticipates consensus expectations will also be upgraded over FY23. But from there, earnings are expected to decline in FY24 amid margin erosion, as deposit competition and mix shift are fully incorporated in the funding base. Bendelaide is exposed to industry pressures, particularly around consumer margins, which are likely to see margin benefit eroded over time, Credit Suisse (Buy) warns. Weaker volume growth and a normalising credit charge could mean the earnings profile is flat to declining over the forecast period, suggests UBS (Hold).</td></tr>

The OZ Minerals acquisition will leave debt within the target range. Morgan Stanley (Hold) suggests future capital management may be constrained by a higher level of net debt due to lower free cash flow generation. A significant second half skew for capex is evident, as management maintained FY23 guidance. Macquarie (Buy) makes modest earnings increases for FY23, noting the buoyant iron ore, coking coal and copper prices present valuation upside. Despite an expected sales burst from China, Blackmores had accumulated inventory that did not convert to sales in the period. Further, price increases of 5-6% failed to convert into better gross margins. The broker expects the sharp contraction in the high-margin Indonesian market dragged. The business didn't benefit as much as peers from stockpiling of immunity products in China during covid, observes the Morgans. has struggled to return this growth into better profitability. Guidance for 2023 signals this will remain the case. Reported results were impacted by a -7% decline in bitcoin revenue while excluding the acquisition of Afterpay, revenue increased 51% year on year. Ord Minnett retains an Accumulate rating and believes the shares are undervalued but stresses that uncertainty prevails. Morgan Stanley (Hold) was encouraged by Block's new investment framework. Still, this broker believes achieving the "Rule of 40" will take a number of years and at worst could be difficult to achieve given the customer mix and pricing structure. Morgan Stanley was nevertheless encouraged by continued growth of the cash app.

BBT - BlueBet Holdings	MISS	0	0	2/0/0	0.90	0.85	2

Morgans had forecast a first half earnings loss of -$1.9m and BlueBet Holdings revealed a loss of -$10.5m due to 'front-loading' of marketing costs and increased staff costs. The broker accordingly increases its loss forecasts in FY23 and FY24. It's assumed marketing costs will fall by -50% in the second half by comparison with the first half and staff costs are expected to stabilise. Ord Minnett notes the Australian business delivered negative operating cash flow but also expects a return to the black in the June half thanks to cuts in marketing. The broker appreciates the company's capital efficient strategy and white-labelling potential.

BSL - BlueScope Steel	MISS	0	1	3/1/2	19.17	18.62	6

BlueScope Steel posted a solid first half result by all accounts but FY23 guidance was well below expectation. Credit Suisse now believes realised pricing and market share growth in Colorbond and other products over the past five years may have been cyclical, not structural. Macquarie (Hold) anticipates a softening housing outlook in Australia may weigh on high-value volume, and concerns exist regarding the case for a US recession which could test the industry discipline and economics. Ord Minnett (Lighten) believes BlueScope is expensive, suspecting the market is yet to fully price in the reversal of US steel spreads and expectations of lower east Asian hot rolled coil spreads. Yet Morgan Stanley views BlueScope as a high-quality cyclical exposure and maintains Buy.

BLD - Boral	BEAT	0	0	1/3/2	3.09	3.73	6

Boral's result beat most forecasts, with weather seemingly not impacting as badly as feared. Price increase gains were indicative of growing price traction that should be recouping some margin soon, yet inflation pressure and risks remain, with management calling out second-order effects of last year’s strong commodity inflation in many key inputs. Sell-raters highlight this headwind, and Citi notes Boral was cycling a very weak prior year of covid-driven construction shutdown. More positive brokers cite upcoming infrastructure spend as supportive. Credit Suisse (Buy) expects upside to guidance, as margins should improve in the second half on lower energy costs, improved weather and modest growth in end markets.

BXB - Brambles	BEAT	1	0	4/3/0	13.31	14.09	7

On a net basis brokers considered Brambles' result to be a beat, complicated by currency. FY23 guidance for both revenues and earnings has been upgraded, pleasing brokers. Guidance largely assumes the timing benefit impact from the first half is absorbed during the second half, Macquarie (Hold) notes, and there is a progressive destocking event in the near-term. Brambles is considered a structurally better business, following recent initiatives, and this is showing through the ability to mitigate inflation through pricing and surcharges. With a view that the macro will slow in the near-term, in particular inflation, and with a destocking event upon us, Macquarie remains cautious on the outlook, particularly into FY24. But while the price action after the result suggests the stock is becoming expensive, Citi (Buy) continues to believe the duration of growth can be extended, noting free cash flow is also improving. Brambles is witnessing a recovery in pallet return rates in the US and UK and is positioned to manage progressive destocking in the second half, Morgan Stanley believes, upgrading to Hold. An improvement is not expected in Australia until the fourth quarter.

BRG - Breville Group	MISS	0	1	3/2/1	23.72	22.42	6

While Breville Group's earnings result was ahead of forecasts, it was largely due to cost cutting rather than revenue growth. Indeed, brokers have focused weaker than expected revenues to declare a miss. A sales slump in Europe/Middle East/Africa sales due to retailer destocking and a -19% fall in distribution segment sales due to a now-resolved Nespresso component sourcing issue in Ukraine were to blame. Management's outlook is for 5-10% growth on the previous year, but the question is whether current macro headwinds can continue to be managed well and price rises pushed through as consumer conditions deteriorate. Inventory levels remained uncomfortably high but brokers expect this to fall in the second half as supply chains normalise. A spread of ratings highlights the varying level of faith brokers have in Breville's capacity to ride out the downturn.

BUB - Bubs Australia	MISS	0	0	0/1/0	0.32	0.32	1
Bubs Australia's pre-reported December-half result held a negative surprise by way of a -$20m impairment and -$8m inventory provision related to slower than expected growth. But Citi suggests the impairment of Deloraine should not surprise, given the company had already flagged it was pursuing Chinese State Administration for Market Regulation registration, and the broker had not incorporated SAMR approval at Deloraine in the first place. Slowing sales are problematic, and the challenge now is to convert inventory to cash given the growing cash drain involved in achieving permanent FDA approval and US growth. Citi's FY23 earnings forecasts fall sharply.
BWP - BWP Trust	IN LINE	1	0	0/1/2	3.75	3.60	3
CPI-linked leases helped BWP Trust to an in-line result. Brokers appreciate the REIT's strong balance sheet, defensive, growing rental income and low gearing but expect it will struggle to make headway as Bunnings vacates older stores and as interest rates continue to rise. Recent weak rent reviews and poor terms struck on recent developments could be a sign of things to come. Flat FY23 dividend guidance implies capital profits may be used to support dividends. Brokers saw BWP as overpriced relative to peers heading into the result and not much had changed, except Ord Minnet has raised its rating to Hold from Lighten, citing significant investor demand for warehouse properties and the likelihood of a gradual increase in distributions.
CHL - Camplify Holdings	BEAT	0	0	2/0/0	2.24	2.36	2
While Camplify Holdings had pre-released most details prior to yesterday's result, the loss was smaller than Ord Minnett had forecast and the broker considers this a positive given the uncertain macro outlook. The company has benefited from leisure spending post-covid and there are no signs this trend is about to break. History suggests Australians favour domestic travel during tougher times, which implies Camplify should benefit, and RV owners will feel the need to place their vehicles on the Camplify platform in order to generate extra income. Morgans' key takeaway from the broadly solid result is the strong outlook for forward bookings and the positive operating cash flow. The result included just one month of trading from the recently-acquired, German-based PaulCamper.
CAJ - Capitol Health	MISS	0	1	0/1/0	0.42	0.28	1
Credit Suisse warns Capitol Health's recovery is likely not going to emerge as quickly as initially thought. The broker expects limited free cash flow and margin improvements pose a significant hurdle to the stock demanding a much higher valuation, despite an aging population providing a fairly sound backdrop. In the first half the company reported earnings equating to 45% of the full year forecast. Credit Suisse pulls back to Hold.
CAR - Carsales	IN LINE	0	0	4/2/0	24.50	24.92	6
Carsales' result broadly met expectations. On a pro forma basis, the company registered double-digit revenue growth across all its business units and regions. During 2020-2022, total new and used car turnover was lower in Australia, but with global supply slowly returning consumer demand remains elevated. A period of turnover catch-up is now expected over 2023-24. For FY23, management expects "good growth" in revenue and earnings and higher group earnings margins, while in the US, "good growth" in revenue and strong growth in earnings are expected. Ultimately, Credit Suisse (Buy) is of the view that management has a buffer to deliver full year guidance, with potential upside if domestic conditions remain buoyant. Positive contributors to earnings growth will include lower opex growth and an acceleration in revenue growth at Trader Interactive. While attracted to the longer-term growth opportunity, Morgans awaits an attractive entry point to acquire shares, and keeps its Hold rating in the meantime.

Ord Minnett understands the appeal of Chorus as a defensive stock, particularly in the current economic environment, but believes there is little margin of safety in the share price at current levels. Ord Minnett is expecting further margin erosion from lower demand and further promotional activity in an attempt to reduce stock levels. Citi also envisages a risk to medium-term demand from strategies to discount and reduce marketing. There are questions around the balance sheet despite a restructuring of debt. The outlook is improving for supermarkets, UBS (Hold) suggests, with real sales growth expected to continue. Food inflation has peaked but is expected to remain elevated, driven by dry groceries. Ord Minnett (Sell) anticipates the positive effect of food price inflation will moderate significantly in the second half, but wage, energy and rent costs are expected to continue rising. The share price response on the day questions the broker's "may impact" call. One feels that unless the bank completely confounded with its result, shareholders were lined up ready to bail out on expectations margins will have peaked and impairments will grow. Management largely delivered with its commentary. The mix of Holds and Sells is of no surprise, being standard for CommBank on longstanding "too great a premium over peers" mantra. Credit Suisse (Buy) suggests the business has shifted from a margin income growth story to a restructuring/capital management story. Macquarie (Buy) notes additional cost reductions across Computershare's business are expected to help through FY24-26, should bond yields revert. COE - Cooper Energy	MISS	0	0	1/1/0	0.26	0.23	2
Cooper Energy's first half earnings were substantially below Macquarie's (Hold) estimates. The broker believes investors will need to watch the transition of leadership as the company awaits a new CEO in order to assess the strategic direction. Still, even at the current share price, the broker believes equity investors may not be adequately rewarded for taking on the ongoing risks in the business. Cooper's earnings and operating cash flow proved nevertheless in line with Morgans' (Buy) forecasts, while profit missed on an increased D&A charge. An uneven first half performance by Orbost has resulted in lower FY23 guidance. By contrast, Morgans believes the stock is oversold.
CRN - Coronado Global Resources	MISS	0	0	2/1/0	2.29	2.18	3
Coronado Global Resources delivered a "mixed" result in 2022. Despite the materially higher income derived from buoyant metallurgical coal prices, the final dividend was well below expectations. 2023 production guidance is below forecasts, with inflation pushing costs 6% higher and capex 50% higher. Credit Suisse (Buy) suggests Coronado may have M&A in mind, perhaps eyeing off BHP Group's planned coal mine sales. Performance should improve on better weather, and the stock is trading below implicit met coal price valuation.
CTD - Corporate Travel Management	MISS	0	0	3/4/0	21.95	20.78	7
Suppose you threw a party and nobody came. Excited over the prospect of a post-covid travel rebound in the US, Corporate Travel Management upped its staffing levels. The rebound has so far been tepid, so costs led the company to a miss. Citi (Hold) nevertheless suggests a lack of understanding from the market about the depth of the company's second half skew. That skew is needed to achieve FY guidance. North America was weaker than expected which provides the risk to both guidance and a full recovery in FY24. Management expects to hit pre-covid profit levels this year. UBS (Buy) notes the business appears well able to leverage its technical advantage in a fragmented market.
CGC - Costa Group	MISS	0	2	1/4/0	2.72	2.83	5
Costa Group's -20% fall in earnings was weaker than expected. Declines in the second half were driven by a number of lower than expected production volume/quality outcomes, across avocado, mushroom and citrus. High East Coast rainfall levels reduced fruit quality, negatively impacting realised prices through both domestic and export markets. Debt has sharply increased but the company remains within covenants. An improved weather outlook in 2023 should drive more favourable growing conditions, especially within citrus, which is expected to fully recover. Cost inflation is set to remain a headwind, with operating costs expected to increase year on year. Costa has announced it will postpone blueberry acreage expansion in 2023. Macquarie (Buy) expects significant growth in 2023 and the broker also assumes a large recovery on the prior year, although some of the growth is derived from a reversal of the impact on citrus in 2022 from adverse weather. Credit Suisse and Morgans downgrade to Hold.
CCP - Credit Corp	MISS	0	0	3/0/0	25.75	25.80	3
While Credit Corp's profit largely met Ord Minnett's forecast, it fell well short of Macquarie and Morgans. FY23 guidance is nonetheless retained, suggesting significant second half improvement is required, although management expects Lending can deliver the majority of the improvement. The near-term performance for the US purchased debt ledger (PDL) and consumer lending segments should drive second half growth, with the A&NZ PDL segment expected to be a drag until supply of PDL books improves. Brokers are prepared to grant management the benefit of the doubt.

The REIT's vision has continued to evolve from asset owner to manager, and the Dexus aims to double its active earnings to 20% over the medium-term, with infrastructure-like assets expected to be a key pillar. Macquarie (Buy) finds this encouraging. Leasing volumes improved but UBS (Hold) points out this suggests more capital will be required for development, and observes gearing headwinds remain and more divestments are needed to execute on strategy. DHG - Domain Holdings Australia	IN LINE	0	0	2/2/1	3.57	3.14	5

Domain Holdings Australia posted a weak trading update in December and its formal results were little changed. Without any specific guidance, commentary on listings into the second half pointed to a continuation of the challenging market environment experienced in the Dec quarter. The company's business is materially challenged in a normalised listings environment, Ord Minnett (Lighten) believes, with the cost structure having expanded since the pandemic and, as a result, operating de-leverage has been rapid. Macquarie (Hold) suggests market expectations around the non-listings businesses remain too optimistic, and believes we are at least six months away from the trough in housing markets.

DMP - Domino's Pizza Enterprises	MISS	2	1	3/4/0	75.57	62.91	7

Domino's Pizza Enterprises put up its prices in December and subsequently watched sales collapse. Sales have declined another -2% in the first seven weeks of FY23, and it is unlikely the company will meet its store addition target for the year. Brokers now assume a pause in store opening plans in 2023. Franchisees are reluctant to open stores due to low profitability and resetting value for customers is unlikely to improve profitability in the short term. Macquarie found the result even more disappointing given the capital raising in December. Europe drove the miss to estimates, while A&NZ appears to be holding up. To support franchisee profitability, the company absorbed higher food prices and reduced margins, particularly in Europe. The business is looking to raise food prices again and UBS is confident poor execution is not entrenched, yet initiatives will take time to implement, hence a downgrade to Hold. Otherwise, the share price plunge has triggered two upgrades -- one to Buy and one to Hold, to accompany two existing Buys.

DOW - Downer EDI	MISS	0	0	2/2/0	4.39	4.09	4

Downer EDI's first half result missed consensus forecasts by some -12% and management downgraded guidance yet again by -18%, having already downgraded by -15% in December, citing poor weather, labour shortages and productivity challenges. The dividend was reduced in the first half to 5c, bringing to the end almost a decade of 10c half-year dividends, Macquarie (Hold) notes. UBS (Hold) observes the common downgrade themes this season are labour and weather, and advises the company needs to learn how to better manage these risks going forward. Credit Suisse (Buy) believes the second half will provide a clearer path to likely FY24 earnings and in turn a rebuild in valuation for the company as investors get a better look at operating performance in a more "normal" environment. While describing the result as "shocking", Ord Minnett (Buy) believes the market reaction to the result was too harsh.

APE - Eagers Automotive	BEAT	0	0	5/1/0	14.02	14.90	6

Eagers Automotive posted a beat, but only just. Credit Suisse expects the strong share price reaction had more to do with the company's full year revenue guidance, which Macquarie notes is at the lower end of guidance provided six months ago. UBS (Hold) points at a much larger than expected vehicle order book, which should underpin growth in 2023. The order book run-off period is over two years, and Morgans notes order growth continues at 30% growth per half, which supports the FY23 revenue and margin outlook. Macquarie believes margins should be retained in the current 2023 year and there is upside potential to the BYD contribution with fairly conservative guidance offered. Revenue is now underpinned for longer while the gross margin on new vehicles will remain strong in the near term with as yet minimal signs of cancellations. Offsetting this, the used car market remains a potential headwind and UBS is not expecting anything more than a flat profit outcome for the group in FY23.

EBO - Ebos Group	BEAT	0	0	4/1/1	40.75	39.53	6

Margin expansion and market share gains supported a strong first half result and a beat for Ebos Group. Solid gains were made in Healthcare and Animal Care and ex-acquisitions Credit Suisse (Buy) estimates greater than 10% organic earnings growth. Community Pharmacy is growing well above historical averages due to continued market share growth and greater foot traffic into pharmacists. Strong revenue growth is attributed in part to the contribution from the company's covid anti-viral. Ebos has a history of solid growth and consistently improving its return on capital employed, notes Morgans (Buy), and the record result didn't disappoint. Any government move to allow pharmacists to prescribe some medicines to reduce the pressure on GPs would represent upside to FY24. Ord Minnett (Sell) nevertheless considers the share price rise to be overdone, and doubts the 29% earnings growth rate in Animal Care is likely to be sustained, which should tame margin growth.

EBR - EBR Systems	MISS	0	0	1/0/0	0.99	0.97	1
The FY22 cost base for EBR Systems was higher than Morgans' forecast due to costs from the Solve clinical trial and associated product and staffing costs. A net loss of -US$33.1m was worse than the -US$27.7m expected. In May, the company will present top line results from the Solve trial at the international Cardiac conference, which the broker sees as a key upcoming share price catalyst.
ECF - Elanor Commercial Property Fund	BEAT	0	0	1/0/0	0.99	1.03	1
Ord Minnett notes a slight beat versus expectations for Elanor Commercial Property Fund's first half result. FY23 guidance for funds from operations was nonetheless reaffirmed, balanced by the impact of rising debt costs in the second half. The broker considers operating metrics across the portfolio were solid, featuring positive leasing spreads of 16% and like-for-like rental growth of 4.7%, while occupancy stood at 95.7% (an outperformance versus national peers). FY23 dividend guidance was maintained.
EHL - Emeco Holdings	MISS	0	0	1/0/0	1.15	1.10	1
Emeco Holdings reported first half results that missed Macquarie's estimates, despite adjusted earnings landing at the top end of guidance. Discussions continue regarding the PNP receivable default, with a one-off credit loss of -$22.9m anticipated, net of the expected part payments. Macquarie considers the outlook favourable as earnings growth should occur across all segments. The main downside risk is a material drop in commodity prices that reduces rental equipment demand.
EML - EML Payments	MISS	0	0	1/0/0	1.36	1.70	1
Patience is running out for EML Payments with only one of three brokers making the effort to respond post yet another disappointing market update. Ord Minnett was unpleasantly surprised to note a larger-than-expected margin compression, alongside an increase in variable costs. As the share price keep falling, the broker does suggest it's probably too late to sell now. Fair value has been lowered to $1.70 from $1.85. Buy rating retained.
EDV - Endeavour Group	BEAT	1	0	2/1/3	6.65	6.85	6
While Endeavour Group's result surprised all to the upside, brokers are split down the middle on their views going forward. The company's cost of doing business was a positive surprise in the Dec quarter, with inflation, higher labour costs and operating deleverage all managed better than expected. Hotels performed ahead of expectations as punters return post covid, and while most brokers found retail sales a bit weak, Morgans considered the retail margin performance a standout and upgrades to Buy. Credit Suisse retains Sell as it continues to see a low rate of growth in retail liquor sales and more regulatory risk in hotels than the market is pricing in. Morgan Stanley (Sell) also highlights regulatory risk (pokies), and suggests the company valuation is expensive relative to food retailers such as the supermarkets.
EQT - EQT Holdings	BEAT	0	0	1/0/0	35.00	33.40	1
EQT Holdings produced a "solid" interim result that was generally ahead of Ord Minnett's forecast. Investment in operating expenditure over the second half and FY24 may mean margins contract initially, the company points out. Regardless, opportunities across the business underpin the broker's two-year growth forecast for earnings of 13.1%. The underlying customer contracts are quality and the valuation remains attractive, hence Ord Minnett retains a Buy rating.
EHE - Estia Health	BEAT	0	0	1/0/0	2.35	2.75	1
Estia Health's first half results revealed a benefit from improving occupancy and greater government funding. Underlying earnings were 15% ahead of Macquarie's forecasts. Combined with recent acquisitions, the broker envisages several factors will support strong earnings growth in FY24 and FY25.

EVN - Evolution Mining	MISS	0	0	1/1/4	3.11	2.93	6

Evolution Mining's earnings were a net miss of forecasts. Lower earnings and higher capex resulted in a smaller-than-expected interim dividend. Macquaire (Sell) found debt larger than expected, although UBS (Sell) notes the miner will emerge from the current reinvestment cycle with peak net debt below its internal limit of 35%, and having not raised capital. The Mungari mill expansion project is now expected to take 2.5 years to build which is 1.25 years slower than the previous estimate. Catalysts include improvement in Red Lake and timing of the first stope at Cowal, in addition to upcoming studies at Ernest Henry and Mungari. Citi (Sell) has little conviction Red Lake can deliver positive cash. Outlier Morgans (Buy) suggests unchanged FY23 production cost guidance implies a stronger second half. Most brokers struggle with valuation.

EVT - EVT Ltd	IN LINE	0	0	2/0/0	18.48	17.91	2

EVT's interim results were largely in line with Ord Minnett's expectations. Management has warned earnings remain at the mercy of movie blockbusters and box office success. Ord Minnett points out the company is in recovery mode post the pandemic and appears confident its second half line-up will provide better results. More than -$280m in non-core property assets have been divested, with borrowing reduced as a result. This clears the way for developments, which appear to the broker to be progressing well. Citi believes the outlook for EVT's cinema and hotel businesses continues to improve, with positive trends continuing into the second half, although notes the pace of recovery of the company's core businesses can be hard to predict. The broker feels the company's strong balance sheet and property portfolio position it well to pursue future growth opportunities.

EXP - Experience Co	BEAT	0	0	1/0/0	0.42	0.45	1

Experience Co's December-half result beat Ord Minnett's forecast, a reduction in gearing and headcount coinciding with a turning of the covid tables. The company posted a net loss of -$1.2m, compared with the broker's forecast of -$1.6m. Ord Minnett believes the company is now poised to maximise the recovery in inbound visitors and expects strong half-on-half growth for the next two years, with a potential influx of Chinese visitors later in 2023. The company finished December with net cash and the broker expects free cash flow will rise sharply from here.

FCL - Fineos Corp	MISS	1	0	2/0/0	2.14	2.67	2

Fineos Corp's revenue was -6.7% below Macquarie and profit -5.3%. FY revenue guidance is downgraded by -8.4%. Management highlighted that closing sales deals has been slower, though the pipeline is very strong and these opportunities have not been missed, only moved out to later in 2023 when cloud activity is expected to grow. Macquarie sees the shift to subscription revenue as positive, suggesting 18.4% growth. The weak balance sheet remains a concern, and this leads the broker to apply a -20% valuation discount, while still retaining Buy. Ord Minnett upgrades to Buy from Accumulate on valuation.

FBU - Fletcher Building	MISS	0	1	3/2/0	6.45	4.87	5

Fletcher Building reported in line with pre-released numbers, but because those numbers were released only last week, and featured a miss on earnings and downgraded guidance, the result goes down as a miss. Wet summer weather across A&NZ is mostly to blame. The December-half result revealed weaker residential and development sales and a fall in margins. While management suggests this was a timing issue, Ord Minnett (Accumulate) believes the company will be hard-pressed to hit targets in a deteriorating residential market. Macquarie (Buy) has nevertheless become more confident in the company's A&NZ volume forecasts. Pricing power is apparent in manufacturing segments against the backdrop of input cost inflation. A prior Buy from Morgan Stanley was based on cyclical strength providing earnings momentum. Now, the broker feels key A&NZ cycles are past their peaks and the broker has downgraded to Hold.

FLT - Flight Centre Travel	IN LINE	0	0	1/3/2	16.79	18.51	6

Flight Centre Travel reported in line with its pre-release but given employee retention costs were taken below the line, Credit Suisse (Sell) notes an actual miss on AGM guidance, and retention costs will be ongoing. The squeeze on Leisure revenue is structural, the broker believes. Corporate client wins are a highlight but with at least two thirds coming through FCM's platform that caters to enterprise clients, the falling mix of SME clients is a headwind to margins. Macquarie (Buy) notes Flight Centre's corporate business is outperforming peers and the broader industry. FY earnings guidance has been maintained prior to any contribution from Scott Dunn, and the company has noted no signs of macro headwinds at this stage. While strong momentum was demonstrated in the Corporate business, Citi (Hold) is cautious about reliance on Corporate to meet guidance in a potentially recessionary environment.

FMG - Fortescue Metals	IN LINE	0	0	0/0/7	16.69	16.66	7

Fortescue Metals reported in line with expectation and there was no great surprise the dividend payout ratio was reduced. The company typically pays a better second half dividend but brokers do not think that's likely this time. Seven Sell ratings sum up the view that while iron ore prices remain strong for now, it's not going to last. And shareholders will not be reaping the benefits of a final bonanza while Fortescue ploughs capital into its long-term green investments. As iron ore cash flow subsides, less will be available for such investment. At the end of the day, all brokers see the stock as overvalued.

FDV - Frontier Digital Ventures	IN LINE	0	0	1/0/0	1.29	1.16	1

Morgans adopts slightly more conservative portfolio earnings margin assumptions for Frontier Digital Ventures, following 2022 results which were largely pre-released. While the broker acknowledges reasonable revenue growth and associated profitability in 2022, softer December quarter revenue growth provides a reason for caution. Revenue growth was lower partly due to economic/currency headwinds for Zameen and lower revenue for the Middle East & North Africa (MENA) region.

GUD - G.U.D. Holdings	IN LINE	0	0	4/1/0	11.55	11.26	5

Expectations were low ahead of GUD Holdings' result, and in the wash-up a beat on earnings and miss on profit netted out to roughly in line. AutoPacific Group's performance disappointed but the core automotive aftermarket, ex APG, is tracking slightly ahead of guidance. Management reiterated a second half skew for APG and commentary regarding trading in January and February was positive, which UBS (Hold) attributes to the positive share price response on the day. The issue is however that the second half skew, and an easing in chip shortages by year end, will coincide with weaker consumer buying power. That said, brokers give GUD some benefit of the doubt and note the stock is undervalued.

GEM - G8 Education	IN LINE	0	1	0/2/0	1.20	1.21	2

G8 Education's 2022 results were largely in line with pre-reported numbers. While the company is responding to headwinds effectively, Macquarie notes resourcing challenges exist. The company is still to exit the 30 impaired centres in its portfolio and this may prove difficult. UBS highlights solid improvement in occupancy half on half, ending the year at 71%, and major business improvements are largely complete. The demand outlook is improving and the upcoming increase in government rebates should help further stimulate participation. However, labour shortages remain the key constraint to further occupancy uplifts and industry supply may again become a headwind. Wage increases could help drive a meaningful step-up in labour availability, but government reviews of the industry create another layer of uncertainty, UBS warns, before downgrading to Hold.

GDF - Garda Property	IN LINE	0	0	1/0/0	1.98	1.90	1

Morgans does not qualify Garda Property Group's result other than to note FY23 distribution guidance is retained, implying a 5% yield. Looking ahead, the focus remains on the development pipeline with several industrial projects to complete in the near term as well as leasing on the established portfolio and asset sales. Brisbane industrial rental growth is expected to remain strong given lack of supply. Morgans notes the REIT provides exposure to the industrial and office sectors which over the near term will re-weight further to industrial as the current pipeline builds out over the next few years.

Ord Minnett upgrades to Buy from Accumulate. The dividend missed Macquarie's (Hold) expectations. By taking advantage of more limited competition in the market, Goodman is setting itself up for the next cycle. The main drivers of the business largely improved over the Dec quarter, reflecting historically low vacancies in key markets, an acceleration in rental growth and improvement in development yields. Credit Suisse sums up positive ratings by pointing to an investment view predicated on Goodman's strong balance sheet, attractive earnings growth outlook and a view that there are still plenty of legs left in the supply chain rationalisation/e-commerce thematic, not to mention data centres. Harvey Norman benefited from a surge in sales during covid which required little marketing spend. That scenario has now reversed. ILU - Iluka Resources	IN LINE	1	0	1/5/0	11.17	11.23	6
Iluka Resources' 2022 result met forecasts, with earnings rising 45% year on year thanks to strong mineral sands prices. Cost inflation of 8% year on year reflects ageing deposits and WA cost escalation. The final investment decision on Balranald was achieved and Wimmera is approved, but forecast capex is a lot higher than most forecasts. UBS (Hold) expects 2024 to be higher again, with Wimmera potentially keeping capex at elevated levels through until 2027. UBS also notes cash, cash flows, debt facilities and government support provide comfort on funding new projects. Citi notes the timing could be better given mineral sands prices have since softened, but upgrades to Hold. Responses to production guidance were mixed, with Macquarie (Buy) suggesting a 12% increase for zircon is strong, but costs are set to rise by 23%.

Imdex reported in line with a recent positive update. No explicit earnings guidance was provided though management noted a positive start to the second half. Citi (Buy) expects the days of double-digit organic volume growth are behind Imdex with the company facing tougher comparables, leaving pricing uplift likely to be the key driver of organic growth moving forward. While the company has retained a net cash position up to now, Citi sees potential for management to increase its leverage ratio and facilitate growth, particularly as it increases exposure to more capital-intensive and longer-duration mining production. Brokers otherwise laud Imdex's exposure to the mineral exploration, with recent metal prices increases feeding into customer demand. The recent acquisition of Devico further enhances the company's global position.

Ingenia Communities delivered disappointing underlying earnings, as development earnings were impacted by continued shortages of key trades. Downgraded guidance reflects ongoing construction delays and, more recently, a slowing residential market. This marks a series of consecutive downgrades, UBS (Hold) notes, and while peers are experiencing similar operational challenges, Ingenia's consistent inability to meet stated targets raises broader questions around the operating platform's ability to scale. Ord Minnett (Buy) agrees that while long-term demand for the sector remains strong, Ingenia will need time to prove its ability to consistently meet guidance. Holiday parks and Lifestyle Rental are otherwise showing stable growth and structural tailwinds. The key focus, UBS believes, will be on balance sheet strength to buffer weakness and recovery in sentiment in regional residential markets.

<tr><td>IVC - InvoCare</td><td>MISS</td><td>1</td><td>0</td><td>2/3/0</td><td>11.76</td><td>11.19</td><td>5</td></tr>
<tr><td colspan="8">InvoCare's 2022 result miss is attributed to higher costs weighing on margins, including labour constraints, supply chain pressures and inclement weather. Morgans (Buy) suggests headwinds will moderate. InvoCare is cycling elevated covid-era volumes and while some market share has been lost, capacity was not increased during peak volumes. As a result, Macquarie (Hold) believes the business is better positioned compared with some peers to manage lower industry volumes ahead. Ord Minnett also suspects InvoCare lost volume share in Australian funerals in 2022 but expects growth to resume in 2023, and upgrades to Buy. But with death rates likely to fall in 2023, and higher interest rates and impending D&A, UBS (Hold) sees little room for improvement.</td></tr>

IPH - IPH	IN LINE	0	0	3/1/0	10.65	10.85	4
IPH Ltd's first half results were in line with expectations. Revenues fell by-3% in A&NZ but rose by 9% in Asia, while there was also a contribution from the newly-acquired S&B. While near-term organic growth is subdued and the stock may be subject to sentiment on domestic filings and currency, Morgans (Hold) likes the longer-term opportunity. UBS (Buy) believes M&A will be a key driver for the stock. IPH has signalled it is implementing some digital initiatives to drive revenue growth, ahead of the "IPH Way" efficiency program providing a benefit from FY25. UBS envisages several opportunities such as bolt-on acquisitions in Canada, entry into a new secondary IP market, and adjacent businesses in translation services, patent renewals and/or software.
IRE - Iress	IN LINE	0	0	0/2/0	11.25	9.25	2
Iress' full-year result just scraped into the low end of downgraded September guidance as reduced revenue combined with higher expenses to cut margins. Macquarie describes 2022 as a re-basing year and observes the core of the Australian business remains strong, the company's annual churn rate has eased and the dividend is attractive. Brokers await the company's April 20 Investor Day (post an operational review) and evidence on earnings execution. Ultimately, Morgans sees significant upside for earnings though valuation multiples are currently considered "full", while balance sheet flexibility has reduced.
JHX - James Hardie Industries	MISS	0	0	5/1/0	40.13	37.78	6
James Hardie Industries's earnings missed consensus as volumes declined due to destocking and margins disappointed, impacted by input inflation. Pricing outcomes were below expectations but pricing power remained firm, especially in Repair & Remodel. Ord Minnett has downgraded its stance on pricing outcomes past 2024 as the housing market continues to slow, and lower-margin products such as wood and vinyl gain favour. Management also guided to the need for tactical discounting to support market share, signalling a greater offensive in the new construction market than expected to defend its market position. This means the group expects to deliver net price growth overall, but diluted by outsized growth in lower-value products in the near term. Credit Suisse (Hold) suggests this could hold up the margin recovery. All others are on Buy however, on valuation and longer term growth assumptions.
JHG - Janus Henderson	BEAT	0	0	0/2/1	30.65	34.67	3
While Janus Henderson's Dec quarter earnings go down as a (significant) beat, Citi (Sell) suggests the result was of low quality, with the main drivers being performance fees and a slightly lower rate of tax. Net outflows are of an even greater concern, as is a decline in near-term investment performance. Morgan Stanley (Hold) remains concerned by elevated institutional outflows that have continued for several years, despite being a management area of focus.
JBH - JB Hi-Fi	IN LINE	0	0	1/3/2	46.03	45.16	6
JB Hi-Fi reported in line with its January update, which included strong December sales plus better-than-expected momentum in January. Just about everyone, including management at the retailer, is anticipating trading will weaken through the second half FY23 and sales and earnings will be below trend in 2023. It's just a matter of how weak, and The Good Guys' sales decline is already picking up pace. During the December half, the cost of doing business rose sharply but the balance sheet closes the year in a strong position. In the wake of the covid lockdown boom for the company, there's no surprise broker ratings are weighted to the downside for FY23. Citi has long held a belief retail sales will prove more resilient than feared and thus sticks with Buy on upside risk to consensus expectations. The broker finds a forecast -4% sales decline and -32% margin decline over the second half to be inconsistent with the company's current trajectory.
JLG - Johns Lyng	BEAT	0	0	1/0/0	8.26	9.65	1
The interim result from Johns Lyng was robust and Citi finds early encouraging signs in the US. Given the history of upgrades in June, the broker suspects the company is taking a conservative stance with new guidance and potentially underestimating the volume of work likely to emerge. The broker's estimate for earnings is ahead of guidance, amid expectations of a buoyant contribution from catastrophe events. These events are increasingly larger in scale and longer in duration.

JDO - Judo Capital	BEAT	0	0	4/0/0	1.91	1.94	4
Judo Capital delivered a solid first half beat, supported by higher than expected net interest margins. Citi described the period as ideal, but an aberration, with rising interest rates and strong business profitability allowing Judo to grow its loan book above 20% as funding costs declined sharply. The result also benefited from strong hedged margin benefits. The broker warns conditions have already started to change, earlier than expected, and that net interest margins will decline over the second half despite ongoing cash rate increases. Macquarie agrees deposit tailwinds will ease in the June half, which should result in margin pressure and volatility. Macquarie believes management will have to prove its mettle in a more stable environment to gain a market re-rating.
JIN - Jumbo Interactive	MISS	0	0	3/0/0	17.29	17.62	3
Jumbo Interactive's result beat Morgan Stanley but missed Macquarie and Morgans. Lottery Retailing revenues were softer than expected, impacted by the pause in sequential digital penetration growth within lotteries in the period. Volatility in lottery volumes and digital penetration will impact Jumbo’s earnings in FY23, Macquarie warns. But this volatility smooths out over multiple periods and with opportunities to raise price, the broker forecasts three-year compound earnings growth of 10%pa. Balance sheet optionality remains for M&A. Morgan Stanley highlights a dividend of 23c implies a payout at the upper end of the 65-85% range and suspects the pricing around the Powerball game change will be critical for the business going forward.
KAR - Karoon Energy	MISS	0	0	3/0/0	3.04	3.18	3
Karoon Energy posted an increase in earnings of 97% and profit 275%, resulting from a 33% year on year increase in production, but still managed a miss due to a ramp-up in operation and development costs. Yet Morgan Stanley suggests the result demonstrates the leverage within the business. The company offers favourable free cash flow leverage to Brent prices with lower policy risk compared to peers, and the broker upgrades to Buy, feeling the inflection in Karoon's exploration and production profile is under-appreciated by investors. Macquarie goes further in suggesting the stock remains its top pick in the small-medium energy category noting the Neon appraisal program, considered a key factor in valuation, is not priced in by the market.
KLS - Kelsian Group	MISS	0	0	3/0/0	7.87	7.76	3
Kelsian Group posted a slight miss, but brokers remain universally upbeat about the outlook (and all retain Buy ratings). Kelsian indicated it could not escape the global labour shortage caused by the pandemic with both domestic and international bus divisions delivering first half results that were lower than expected. Marine & Tourism nevertheless surprised to the upside. Management noted an improvement in labour problems, and international business returned to previous levels at the end of December. Australian operations are still below pre-covid levels. UBS expects better momentum in the second half while highlighting Marine & Tourism as the stand-out throughout the period. Singapore did not excel, while Captain Cook is yet to fire up. Ord Minnett believes the sector presents an exciting opportunity going forward as cities replace environmentally unfriendly diesel buses with electric. Global operators which have a proven track record should be sought after.
KED - Keypath Education International	IN LINE	0	0	0/1/0	0.97	0.73	1
Keypath Education International's first half results were in line with a pre-release. Healthcare, which is 56% of Keypath's revenue, produced growth of 22.3% which implies to Macquarie the other segments went backwards in terms of revenue. The contribution margin in the first half was down -23.7% which reflects the large number of programs in a deep investment phase. Macquarie believes progress over the next 12-18 months, as the business targets positive adjusted earnings from the second half of FY24, will be critical.
KSL - Kina Securities	IN LINE	0	0	1/0/0	1.11	1.02	1
In a broadly solid result, underlying profit for Kina Securities in the first half proved in line with Morgans' forecast. Bad debts were well contained and an impressive 18% return on equity was achieved. The broker now includes in its forecasts the impact from the December budget (PNG government) which increased the corporate income tax rate on PNG Commercial Banks to 45% from 30%, starting from the 2023 fiscal year.

KGN - Kogan.com	IN LINE	0	0	1/1/1	6.05	5.99	3
Kogan had pre-released its numbers. The first signs of an improving underlying performance are emerging, with January being the first month in which Kogan generated a profit since July 2022. Ord Minnett (Buy) continues to envisage great potential in the business but reduces subscriber growth estimates for FY23 by -10%. The impact of excess inventory in the first half could be seen in the result, Credit Suisse (Sell) points out, and product range expansion in exclusive and third-party brands that led to the inventory issues of 2022 is clearly not a viable expansion opportunity for Kogan in the broker's view. Growth is likely to be constrained to core ranges, probably limiting the opportunity for market growth, and the broker is yet to see stabilisation, let alone growth, in marketplace revenue while Amazon continues to take significant share in Australia. UBS (Hold) suggests the next step is the company's return to a long-term revenue growth trajectory, and that an increase in new customer numbers would be helpful in this respect. Future growth may require expenditure, instead marketing investment slumped.
LFS - Latitude Group	MISS	0	1	0/2/1	1.35	1.23	3
Latitude Group's result missed consensus, impacted by continued elevated repayment levels and margin pressures. Macquarie envisages re-pricing initiatives and rising rates will broadly offset each other over 2023. But as macro uncertainties are driving soft margin trends and there are persistent material items, the broker finds better value elsewhere in the sector and downgrades to Sell. The result proved lower quality than Citi (Hold) had anticipated, underpinned by one-off cost benefits, an abnormally low tax rate and other below-the-line items. Citi nevertheless believes FY23 will represent a trough for Latitude, and while expecting cost of funding to prove difficult over the next twelve months, the broker feels continuing volume and growth and repricing initiatives will support a strong earnings recovery from FY24.
LLC - Lendlease Group	MISS	0	0	4/2/0	10.58	10.71	6
Lendlease's result missed consensus, with development earnings pushing this year's skew into the second half, creating additional uncertainty for shareholders. The focus now shifts to funding the pipeline, for which the company will have to either recycle capital, run higher leverage, or slow target capital. Management reaffirmed that division return on invested capital and margins will be at the lower end of ranges provided at its November strategy update. Management's group return on equity target of 8-10% is expected to be met by FY24. Concerns over the balance sheet and more one-offs, despite no real change to the FY23 or FY24 outlook, are what's holding investors back. Lendlease continues to be weighed down by negative market sentiment and Credit Suisse (Buy), for one, does not expect this to change until there is proof FY24 return targets can be hit.
LFG - Liberty Financial	IN LINE	1	0	2/1/0	4.73	4.18	3
Liberty Financial reported largely in line with forecasts. Despite a challenging operating environment, Macquarie (Buy) was pleased with the revenue performance as lending volumes were stronger. While envisaging considerable margin pressure as funding spreads normalise, the broker prefers Liberty to its non-bank peers because of its SMSF product and differentiated pricing. Moreover, a decision not to re-price the back book above cash rates resulted in lower churn rates compared with peers. Credit Suisse expects residual impacts of macro pressures will further impact the second half and into early FY24, before a return to earnings growth. This broker believes the market will likely require evidence of a peak in interest rates before a meaningful re-rate will occur, but sees current valuation as compelling and upgrades to Buy. Liberty has displayed good execution in building out a diverse offering in secured finance, Citi (Hold) believes, but this broker suspects the non-bank lender is ultimately vulnerable to competitive pressures and slowing demand.
LIC - Lifestyle Communities	MISS	0	0	0/1/0	18.25	18.20	1
Lifestyle Communities' December-half result proved a mixed bag, with revenue outpacing Ord Minnett's forecasts by 11% and earnings disappointing by -15%, reflecting higher corporate costs and lower home-settlement margins. The broker attributes the higher corporate costs to strong operating momentum, which should aid growth going forward.

Management reiterated short-term and medium-term guidance.
LAU - Lindsay Australia	BEAT	1	0	2/0/0	0.76	0.85	2
Lindsay Australia's first half net profit beat Ord Minnett's expectations. FY23 earnings guidance has been reaffirmed, implying the performance in the second half will only need to be flat and still reach the top end of that range. Strength in transport continues, with earnings up 29%, while the rural segment was flat and constrained by weather events plus a likely build-up in inventory. The broker notes the balance sheet has improved materially, providing growth opportunities both organically and via acquisition. The result materially beat Morgans (upgrade to Buy), who notes outlook commentary was positive, with the company aiming to expand its Rail capacity and grow its Rural business. Management reiterated FY23 guidance, with strong operating conditions and improved utilisation in Transport expected to drive second half growth.
LNK - Link Administration	IN LINE	0	0	0/3/0	2.75	2.12	4
Link Administration's result was a bit of a mess given the sale of Pexa Group, and discussions to sell its Fund Solutions division to Waystone. As operating earnings (EBIT) were in line with the pre-announced result, we'll call it in line, noting the big drop in target reflects Pexa's exit. Credit Suisse points out earnings were nevertheless a beat in the divisions where the majority of value resides, being Retirement and Superannuation Solutions and Corporate Markets. Citi believes Link could become an attractive stock again as it reduces its core business to provide strong recurring revenue and reasonable growth. At this stage, there is the potential exposure to Woodford liabilities and a successful execution of the sale of Fund Solutions is yet to occur.
LVH - LiveHire	IN LINE	0	0	1/0/0	0.33	0.28	1
As LiveHire's first half result was largely pre-released, Morgans applies its focus to overall strategy and the company's pivot toward ideal client profiles (ICP). During the half North American Direct Sourcing revenue performance was impacted by covid roles continuing to churn off the platform and a re-basing of clients towards the ICPs. Due to a slower ramp-up to larger ICPs and lower estimated annual contract values, the broker reduces its revenue estimates by around -20%.
TLC - Lottery Corp	BEAT	1	0	4/2/0	4.97	5.29	6
Lottery Corp's result beat everyone, with both Lotteries and Keno businesses ahead of expectations. Lotteries represent more than 85% of earnings, and while there is some jackpot earnings volatility, near-term initiatives support attractive growth. Management did not provide any guidance for full year earnings but the future payout ratio has been lifted to 80-100% from the prior 70-90%. The report has showcased the scalability of the lottery business model on a relatively fixed cost base, UBS (Buy) suggests, triggering comparisons with infrastructure-like business models. The more interesting story is FY24, Macquarie (Buy) believes, when lotteries gets the full benefit of an increase in commissions which should add around $30m incremental earnings, and is the main driver of upgrades. The digital penetration of Lotteries is anticipated to slow now covid lockdowns are behind us, but Credit Suisse (Hold) believes Lottery Corp is an ongoing structural growth story.
LOV - Lovisa Holdings	BEAT	0	0	3/2/0	26.94	26.73	5
First half results beat estimates as Lovisa Holdings continues to execute on its store roll-out and expansion. Total sales for the first seven weeks of the second half are up 24% but while also a strong result, Citi (Hold) notes some of this is being driven by a price increase, cycling omicron and the addition of 150 new stores. Lovisa appears to be executing well on transforming itself into a truly global retailer, the broker suggests, and it is arguably more resilient than other retailers given its younger customer base and lower priced products, but the stock is unlikely to beat consensus FY23 expectations, Citi believes, which may be necessary to justify the 40x FY23 PE multiple. The company is undertaking a short-term cost investment at a time when the business is cycling tough comparables, yet its track record and exposure to youth underpin Macquarie's (Buy) confidence. Morgans (Buy) believes Lovisa may just prove to be one of the biggest success stories in Australian retail.

<tr><td colspan="8">Lynas Rare Earths' first half results were largely in line with the pre-release. Yet, Ord Minnett is "frustrated" with a perceived production gap and concerned that its incorporation of a three-month outage may not be enough. The broker currently expects Kalgoorlie will be commissioned closer to September and delays first production estimates by three months but envisages a risk this could blow out to 6-9 months and eliminate the bulk of FY24 earnings. UBS notes a price lag led to higher cost of goods sold and agrees the plant completion date and ramp-up remain questionable, suggesting the pressure is on after the renewal of the company's Malaysian operating licence. UBS downgrades to Hold. Macquarie (Hold) is constructive on the outlook for rare earths pricing, but the uncertainty of the ramp-up at Kalgoorlie and the operations at the Malaysian plant are acknowledged headwinds.</td></tr>

Magellan's valuation is not stretched, brokers agree, but while outflows will likely moderate, investment performance remains disappointing, which is the key catalyst for further re-rating. Ord Minnett suggests downside risks are more than priced in and notes good progress has been made on several fronts that should comfort investors. Management continues to explore exit options for the UK operation.
MPL - Medibank Private	BEAT	0	0	2/5/0	3.18	3.45	7
Brokers were positively surprised by a bottoming in policy numbers and lower costs for Medibank Private. It seems fears regarding the cyber attack were exaggerated. A continuation of the subdued claims environment for the Health Insurance division also helped. Still, potential class actions arising from the cyber fallout restrains Citi (Hold) from becoming too confident. Macquarie (Hold) will wait for the APRA review to land. But Medibank demonstrated a level of renewed confidence at the result by reintroducing full year guidance, which keeps Credit Suisse on Buy. Core profitability trends are currently beating UBS' (Buy) projections for both private health and the health division, and the broker assumes Medibank will fully recover post-attack.
MP1 - Megaport	IN LINE	0	0	6/1/0	10.14	9.61	7
Megaport had already broken the bad news with its recent trading update, and copped a share price hiding at the time. Yesterday's result therefore held no surprises. Six Buy ratings from seven are implicit of brokers' focus on the under-valuation of growth potential and not day-to-day volatile share price moves. Management stated the pipeline is solid and the opportunity for growth of customers and revenue remains unchanged. Cash burn should decline in the second half, boosted by lowered capex and inventory requirements. The business might still be impacted by macro headwinds, of course. In the period before new sales rebound, existing customers should continue to purchase more of their telecommunications needs off the company.
MHJ - Michael Hill	IN LINE	0	0	1/0/0	1.72	1.21	1
Michael Hill delivered first half earnings towards the top end of the company's guidance range, and is pointing to a full year result that will exceed the previous fiscal year. Citi highlights that while industry promotion is returning to pre-pandemic levels, Michael Hill has not had to participate as much as peers as it benefits from brand elevation activities. The broker warns weather events and subsequent temporary store closures in New Zealand could weigh on the region's performance in the third quarter, although the retailer indicated sales in the first eight weeks have been in line with expectations.

MCR - Mincor Resources	MISS	0	0	0/1/0	1.60	1.50	1
Mincor Resources reported a first half loss of -$54.7m which was materially higher than Macquarie's -$15.8m forecast, impacted by hedges and fair value changes of derivatives. Free cash flow was nevertheless in line with estimates and positively, Mincor has a strong balance sheet. The miner has not reaffirmed FY23 guidance outside of its previous 8-10kt of nickel concentrate, and requires a strong second half to meet guidance. Macquarie has cut its FY23 earnings forecast by -62% but there are no changes in the medium term.
MIN - Mineral Resources	MISS	0	0	2/3/0	98.10	92.66	5
Mineral Resources' first half result was mixed, with a stronger dividend offset by weaker earnings and cash flow. The bulk of the earnings miss was due to higher depreciation. The miss in cash flow reflected a large working capital build which was attributable to timing on cash receipts from the lithium hydroxide tolling agreements. Capex guidance has been increased, largely due to a higher spend in lithium, reflecting the changes to the MARBL JV. First ore for the Onslow project is approximately six months later than previously assumed, with capex unchanged. With significant capex programs in place, and a dividend equating to -$230m, high gearing is likely to worry investors in

The repayment of the additional -$25m of debt funding from Pacific Equity Partners will remain a key risk and likely overhang the stock until an announcement is made, suggests the broker. MoneyMe's profit beat Ord Minnett and a strong half for operating cash flow demonstrates the high cash yields derived from the loan portfolio, with origination static. However 5.9% of loans are in arrears and have not been provisioned against. First half results for Motorcycle Holdings slightly missed Morgans' forecasts driven by higher than expected operating costs. Including acquisitions, strong gross profit growth versus the previous corresponding period was delivered across all core segments. Management is now focusing on tighter cost management as signs of softening demand have emerged, particularly across New and Used motorcycle sales. The broker believes the company represents compelling value on a medium-term view.
Mount Gibson Iron's first half results were better than Macquarie expected, although cash flow remains a depressing factor. FY23 production guidance is unchanged. Operations and cash generation are expected to be stronger in the second half and the broker notes there are now commodity price tailwinds on offer.
MYS - Mystate	IN LINE	0	0	1/0/0	0.00	5.20	1
Mystate delivered a solid first half result, Ord Minnett suggests, and the bank remains en route to meeting the broker's FY23 net profit forecast. The net interest margin proved a disappointment, but larger average loan balances offset. Lower NIM forecasts weigh on forward estimates. On current forecasts earnings in FY24 will higher than in FY21 which will be a crucial achievement, Ord Minnett believes. Not pursuing that growth will result in a shrinking loan book, and shareholders will end up worse off, also taking into account margin pressure and cost inflation.
NAN - Nanosonics	IN LINE	0	0	1/0/1	4.60	4.62	2
Nanosonics results were pre-announced. Management has reiterated its revenue growth guidance range for FY23 and expects gross margins will expand by around 100 basis points to 77-79%, with operating expenditure growing by 22-27%. Ord Minnett (Lighten) observes, despite a presence in EMEA since FY15, Nanosonics is yet to make a significant breakthrough because of existing competition and the difficulties in revising cleaning protocols in each country. The next major product, Coris, will be launched in Australia and Europe towards the end of 2023. The transition to a direct sales model is complete, notes Morgans (Buy), and operating leverage is evident. The global installed base is increasing and the upgrade cycle continues with 800 units replaced in the first half, suggesting further improvement in the second. Ord Minnett suggests overvaluation.
NSR - National Storage REIT	BEAT	0	0	0/1/3	2.27	2.22	4
National Storage REIT's first half earnings beat reflected increased storage revenue and improved operating margins, which more than offset a near doubling of interest expense and a 17% increase in operating expenses. The result was supported by strong occupancy and rate growth. Management has upgraded FY23 guidance by 4%. Although this is in line with prior expectations, Macquarie remains cautious about FY24 given rising interest expenses. Given elevated valuations and interest expenses, Macquarie retains a Sell rating, and appears to echo the views of other brokers.
NGI - Navigator Global Investments	BEAT	0	0	2/0/0	2.07	1.71	2
Navigator Global Investments posted earnings ahead of forecasts. Management has cut the top end of the FY guidance range to reflect cost increases and a delayed capital raising. Distributions in the first half to date are aleady double that of the whole first half. Although Macquarie does not expect this run rate from the first two months to continue, it provides certainty for earnings growth half on half. Ord Minnett lauds the strong performance from Dyal funds, which tends to outperform expectations. Looking forward, the broker says Navigator will be able to acquire the balance of Dyal's interests on a cheap multiple in FY26. Cost increases, the delayed capital raising, forex moves and risk from a deferred consideration lead to a sharp target cut from Macquarie.
NWL - Netwealth Group	IN LINE	0	1	3/3/0	14.74	14.87	6
Netwealth Group reported in line with the bulk of forecasts. An increased focus on operating leverage going forward was well received by the market, suggesting cost growth will normalise from the elevated levels seen in recent periods. It's been a long time coming, Macquarie (Buy) notes, but it does appear earnings margins have bottomed. Morgans (Hold) suggests Netwealth continues to execute "flawlessly" and still sees a long runway of opportunity.

<tr><td colspan="8">Operating leverage is expected to return with a flattening of cost growth from the second half. Credit Suisse (downgrade to Hold) is not so sure. Brokers have been pleasantly surprised as the gold miner announced a 15c interim dividend, plus a 20c special to go with it. Credit Suisse nevertheless feels a buyback would provide better value creation for shareholders. Newcrest has for sometime been significantly undervalued versus peers and the broker doesn't believe shareholders own the stock for a 3% yield. Given few near-term catalysts for re-rating, Credit Suisse is surprised the board rejected Newmont's offer. UBS (Hold) was disappointed there was no news on growth and options in the portfolio. Moreover, there is no clarity around timelines or the urgency in terms of the Newmont offer.</td></tr>

Weakness was apparent in News Media, Dow Jones and Books, with Digital Real Estate slightly better than forecast. Management’s outlook commentary pointed to the challenging trends seen in the Dec quarter persisting into March. While the near-term outlook will see some weakness, Credit Suisse (Buy) expects cost-out initiatives announced by management, including reducing discretionary spending and reducing overall headcount, will see some of these earnings declines reverse in subsequent years. Ord Minnett (Hold) notes the fall in earnings was partly due to currency (-17%), with the balance reflected the impact of rising interest rates on digital real estate, the Dow Jones business, softening consumer spending (books) and lower advertiser confidence (News media).</td></tr>

The hyperscale contracts, UBS (Buy) notes, investors are eagerly awaiting are expected in the second half. Capex guidance has been substantially raised to fund expansion of the third Sydney site and to add a fifth site in Sydney and a fourth in Melbourne. Covid accelerated global IT upgrades and demand for data centres, hence Morgan Stanley (Buy) was incrementally cautious heading into the result, given a subsequent global pull-back in IT spend, but the demand growth implicit in this spending alleviates the broker's concerns. The majority of the miss resulted from a headwind from Midnight Health (now consolidated). Core private health insurance metrics seem solid and the turnaround for inbound international health insurance continues. Further investment in Midnight Health looks to be a feature of the next three to four halves, with Citi (upgrade to Buy) not anticipating a breakeven until FY25. NCK - Nick Scali	BEAT	0	1	1/1/0	14.17	13.57	2
Nick Scali's first half profit was ahead of expectations, featuring a higher gross margin percentage and lower operating costs supported by Plush synergies. Written sales orders were down -12.1% in January year on year for the Nick Scali brand but up 22.9% on Jan 2020 (pre-covid). On the downside, customer deposits slowed, which suggests weakening demand, while the dividend disappointed and operating cash flow was nearly half consensus forecasts. No guidance was offered. With the current macro environment of higher interest rates and slowing housing turnover a headwind for furniture retailers, and the order bank support now largely unwound, Macquarie downgrades to Hold.
NIC - Nickel Industries	BEAT	0	0	0/1/0	1.22	1.05	1
Nickel Industries's 2022 full-year result outpaced Macquarie's forecasts for earnings and profit and the broker forecasts the miner's share of production should nearly double in 2024. Cash flow proved a -76% disappointment due to the timing of construction payments for Oracle, but net debt met the broker's expectations. The company embarked on an equity raising in January.
NEC - Nine Entertainment	IN LINE	0	0	3/1/0	2.75	2.49	4
Nine Entertainment reported earnings in line with guidance. A March quarter trading update was soft but unsurprisng, Macquarie (Hold) notes, given ad spending was cycling last year's election. The Domain stake also proved a drag on earnings. Nine indicated total TV cost growth is now slightly less than prior guidance, in response to increasing macro headwinds. Additional cost-out opportunities exist in the Digital & Publishing business as well, where the broker believes macro headwinds are an issue. TV market share was 40% FTA in the half and 47% streaming, and more than 50% overall in January. Nine's startegy is allowing it to achieve revenue share above market share. UBS (Buy) lauds the strong performance in times of challenging conditions overall. TV revenue share in particular was a stand-out, amid strong programming. Brokers agree tough times lay ahead for advertising, but remain upbeat.
NTO - Nitro Software	IN LINE	0	0	0/1/0	2.00	2.00	1
Nitro Software had pre-announced its 2022 result. 2023 guidance will be provided in April if the company is still around to provide it. Nitro is subject to a takeover offer from private equity. On that basis, Morgan Stanley suggests the stock will not trade on fundamentals unless the takeover fails.
NST - Northern Star Resources	IN LINE	0	0	2/3/0	12.05	12.31	5
Northern Star Resources's result equally met, missed and beat forecasts (not unusual for a miner), so we'll net out to in-line. With slightly higher costs compared to peers, Northern Star still offers a better operating performance, UBS (Hold) suggests, translating into lower-risk production, while growth options remain. The 11c dividend will be the last fully-franked for some time, given minimal domestic revenues ahead. Northern Star’s language towards the KCGM mill expansion has become more subdued, Credit Suisse (Hold) suggests, with execution remaining a key risk. Management is left with a "buy or build" decision. The broker would prefer the miner to leverage its organic optionality, preserve the balance sheet and return excess funds. However, it is in a unique position whereby inorganic opportunities may be more accretive. Ord Minnett (Buy) envisages earnings, margins and free cash flow will all improve markedly into the second half, based on weighted production guidance amid fundamental improvements at Thunderbox, KCGM and Pogo.
NWH - NRW Holdings	MISS	0	2	1/2/0	2.83	2.80	3
NRW Holdings result was on the "miss" side of in-line, with revenue higher than expected but earnings lower. The dividend was a positive surprise. UBS retains a Buy rating on the basis the stock offers leverage to a second phase in the Western Australian iron ore replacement expenditure cycle and, post the share price pullback, the current valuation is seen as attractive. Citi downgrades to Hold in the expectation of near-term headwinds from competitors preferencing revenue over returns. The result was also weaker than the broker expected largely due to the Civil

As new manufacturing lines come online, Citi (Buy) is confident growth can continue and expects the next phase is a return of capital to investors. UBS (Hold) nevertheless warns capacity constraints in the short term, cost inflation and a more uncertain macro backdrop in the US could constrain earnings growth. PAC - Pacific Current Group	BEAT	0	0	1/0/0	11.00	11.40	1

Pacific Current Group's first half profit was ahead of forecasts despite being down -3.4% on the prior corresponding half. The interim dividend was slightly below forecasts. Ord Minnett considers the outlook positive and the company on track to meet its new commitment guidance. Fundraising activities should drive revenue and earnings growth. The broker increases estimates for earnings per share by 2-4% over the forecast period and reiterates a Buy rating.

PSQ - Pacific Smiles	MISS	0	0	1/0/0	2.30	2.30	1

Pacific Smiles' first half result was softer than Morgan Stanley expected. Management has restated guidance to the lower end of the prior ranges of $270-285m in patient fees and $24-27m in earnings. The broker notes this still reflects a demanding skew to the second half, requiring increased attendance and an improvement in cancellation rates, as well as higher fees per appointment. A catalyst for revisiting the stock will be delivery on revised guidance. Yet the broker retains Buy.

PGH - Pact Group	BEAT	0	0	1/1/0	2.13	2.48	2

Pact Group reported profit ahead of Macquarie (Hold) and just above the top end of guidance. No interim dividend was declared, reflecting the need to preserve cash and allow Pact to reduce debt and continue its capital program. While gearing is higher than normal, this reflects an accelerated capex program to fund platform upgrades that will bring forward revenue generation. Elevated receivables at the reporting date reflect strong sales in the last six weeks of the period. Reducing gearing holds the key to a sustainable re-rating, and second half earnings delivery and progress on assets sales are pivotal in this regard. Credit Suisse (Buy) expects further momentum in the second half with price increases taking full effect, and continues to regard Pact Group as a high-returning turnaround story.

PDN - Paladin Energy	IN LINE	0	0	1/0/0	1.00	1.00	1

Having reported a first half net loss, Paladin Energy has announced it is on track for the restart of its Langer Heinrich project in the first quarter of FY24, with first production slated for the same quarter. While the project is currently focused on general repair and refurbishment, in addition to growth, Macquarie highlights Paladin is fully funded to complete the project and has successfully executed four uranium offtake agreements.

PAN - Panoramic Resources	MISS	0	0	1/0/0	0.22	0.20	1

Panoramic Resources' first half results were weaker than Macquarie expected in terms of net profit but revenue was 25% higher than estimated. The difference stemmed from higher depreciation and unrealised losses on forward contracts. The second half is expected to improve as commercial production levels are ramped up at Savannah. Management has maintained FY23 guidance.

PMT - Patriot Battery Metals	BEAT	0	0	1/0/0	1.75	1.75	1

Patriot Battery Metals reported a modest net profit of CA$0.8m, which compared to Macquarie's forecast loss of -CA$4m. The positive earnings result reflected a combination of the accounting treatment of the flow-through scheme and lower share-based payment expenses. The miner's net cash position of CA$19.3m is -8% lower than the broker had forecast due to timing of cash received from equity issued and option conversion. The upcoming maiden resource for Corvette is considered a key catalyst.

PPE - PeopleIN	BEAT	0	0	2/0/0	4.61	4.65	2

PeopleIN's strong result beat forecasts and FY23 guidance is reaffirmed. Morgans expects delivery at the top-end of the range. Ord Minnett notes an improved performance in the health and industrial segments, supporting organic growth. Although job vacancies have declined from the highs of late 2022, demand appears significantly above historical averages and this supports the near-term outlook. Both brokers consider valuation undemanding, with an attractive fully-franked dividend.

PPM - Pepper Money	MISS	0	0	1/2/0	1.77	1.63	3

Pepper Money printed a mixed second half result, Macquarie (Hold) suggests, with pre-provision earnings below estimates. While asset repricing actions resulted in stronger exit margins than expected, volumes declined, prepayments increased and expenses missed, driven by higher employee expenses. With rates continuing to rise and inflation remaining a concern, the broker expects the challenging operating environment to persist in 2023. As management reprices the mortgage book to offset funding impacts, there's increasing risk of damage to the franchise as churn rates remain elevated. Macquarie can't see any positive drivers until the rate cycle reverses. Citi (Hold) suspects the next 12 months will be difficult as while the company is experiencing higher growth in traditional asset finance and specialist lending products, these are also subject to economic pressures as is the case with mortgages. Given a hyper-competitive environment and consumer pressure, Credit Suisse (Buy) sees risk in the trajectory of Pepper Money's mortgage book, but this broker does feel the current valuation is already accounting for a greater negative scenario than what is likely to emerge.

PRN - Perenti	BEAT	0	0	2/0/0	1.42	1.55	2

Perenti's December-half result pleased Macquarie thanks to a strong beat on margins despite rising costs and labour expense, and management issued its third consecutive upgrade to FY23 guidance, reiterating its goal of margin expansion to 10% from FY25 onward. The company has has a significant level of work in hand and a large order book, which supports cash flow and de-leveraging. Recent safety issues and riskier African contracts remain a concern. A third guidance upgrade in three months are testament to Perenti’s ability to deliver productivity benefits and deliver growth project ramp-ups across various jurisdictions, Citi asserts. Management’s commentary cemented the broker's view around near-term revenue visibility. While the work-in-hand balance fell sequentially, Citi believes Perenti is well positioned to secure new work given its proven track record of delivering operational improvement, and extensive geographical footprint. A deteriorating safety performance is nevertheless concerning and this could continue to weigh on investor confidence until there is evidence of sustained improvement.

PPT - Perpetual	IN LINE	0	0	4/1/0	30.30	30.48	5

The drop in Perpetual's first half underlying profit was expected as it battled adverse markets while investing in growth. The fall is largely because of the inclusion of Pendal's lower quality earnings and an increase in the share count because of the acquisition. The dividend was lower compared to prior guidance, and Perpetual acknowledges it will be difficult to grow the absolute dividend unless markets rally strongly. Citi suggests it may take a while for the value in the stock to be realised and the market will have to wait until April for guidance on the combined business. Positive flows from Barrow could help but the broker warns this is not likely to happen quickly. UBS (Hold) suspects the market was expecting too much in terms of synergies to be had from the incorporation of Pendal, and cost growth may also have disappointed. Brokers saw an overall solid result nonetheless, implying an undemanding valuation.

PRU - Perseus Mining	BEAT	1	0	2/0/0	2.35	2.40	2

Perseus Mining's first half net profit was stronger than Macquarie expected although the dividend was below forecast. Perseus will review the dividend with the full year result with the potential for a bonus on top of the base payout. Second half production and cost guidance has been maintained. Following recent movements in the share price and the strong cash generation, Macquarie upgrades to Buy. Credit Suisse notes Perseus will explore a special dividend with its full year result, being ex-growth, flush with cash (no debt) and able to fund its growth pipeline comfortably. A buyback could provide a sustained accretive capital management program over time, the broker suggests, whilst allowing Perseus to remain agile if external M&A opportunities arise.

PWR - Peter Warren Automotive	BEAT	0	0	4/0/0	3.36	3.44	4

A solid result from Peter Warren Automotive suggests higher margins for longer. Ongoing growth in the order backlog should provide strong visibility for earnings. Morgan Stanley concedes prior forecasts were conservative due to factoring-in the potential impact of macroeconomic uncertainty upon demand. Morgans notes the order book is starting to reflect a more balanced demand and delivery environment, rising by 4% half-on-half, compared to a 61% rise year on year. Citi is attracted to the consolidation opportunity in dealerships although suspects this may take longer to eventuate in current conditions. No guidance was provided by management other than references to a substantial order bank and diversified revenue streams. The company has reiterated acquisition intentions and there remains potential for re-entry of Toyota into the group.

PXA - Pexa Group	MISS	0	0	4/0/0	17.21	16.15	4
An encouraging result from Pexa Group's core exchange was overshadowed by disappointment in the UK and for Pexa Digital Growth. Management no longer expects to achieve its aspiration to sign up UK lenders for a total of 20% share of remortgages by the end of FY23. Increased investment in PDG provided no revenue uplift, despite a material step-up in expenses. The bright spot of the result, Macquarie notes, was the performance of the core exchange division, with volumes holding up and costs well managed. Morgans' Buy rating is maintained on the potential of future expansion opportunities.
Pharmaxis saw its after product revenue impacted by zero sales into Russia and the US, forcing Morgans to increases its FY23 net loss forecast. As the broker's valuation is weighted to outer years, its Speculative Buy rating and 24c target are unchanged. Important for a re-rating of the stock, according to Morgans, will be positive data from two upcoming trials due for release prior to the end of the 4Q FY23. These trials include interim data from the lead candidate for Myelofibrosis and top line results for the established scar trial.
PLS - Pilbara Minerals	IN LINE	0	0	2/1/0	5.13	4.93	3
Pilbara Minerals' first half result was solid, Macquarie (Buy) declares, featuring strong earnings. The company has announced a maiden dividend of 11c -- six months ahead of expectation -- which the broker suggests is a key positive. Macquarie notes Pilbara has reported impressive year on year growth in earnings, underpinned by buoyant lithium prices and volume growth. A change in marketing and production strategy has also enabled an upgrade in FY23 production and cost performance. The broker's forecasts imply a free cash flow yield of 22% for FY23. Citi (Buy) notes Pilbara has many options to place uncontracted tonnage in the market and tolling is the choice, driven by value. While domestic pricing is a function of a slow Chinese market, in a briefing the company has emphasised the structural shift that is underway i.e. more electric vehicles, more investment.
PNI - Pinnacle Investment Management	MISS	1	0	2/1/1	10.41	9.98	4
Pinnacle Investment Management reported underlying earnings below broker expectations. Ongoing funds under management mix changes are nevertheless driving a higher average base fee margin. Ongoing higher base fee margins and increased share of Affiliates net profit have the potential to drive earnings ahead of expectations, while market performance in January should have boosted funds under management. UBS (Sell) highlights that the business model of a more diversified stable of strategies to accommodate differing market conditions is proving more cyclical than anticipated when it comes to generating performance fees.
PTM - Platinum Asset Management	MISS	2	0	2/0/1	1.89	2.00	3
Platinum Asset Management's first half net profit missed Morgan Stanley's (Sell) estimates on lower management fees and elevated staffing costs. The increase in staffing costs was primarily attributed to a larger provision for variable compensation and an additional grant in the Partners Plan on the back of strong investment returns from most funds. Performance fees for were negligible. Ord Minnett (Hold) is not amused by the staffing costs, calling them "undesirable". Regardless, enough reasons remain present for investors to "stay the course", the broker believes. A slowing in net retail outflows and higher interest rates have now been incorporated into forecasts. Yet Ord Minnett argues any period of net inflows is likely to remain short lived. Looking further out, funds under management is expected to peak in FY25, and subsequently reduce to FY27. Credit Suisse upgrades its rating to Buy in the expectation an improved fund performance will lead to a recovery in flows. Ord Minnett upgrades to Accumulate.
PBH - PointsBet Holdings	MISS	0	0	0/2/0	1.45	1.36	2
PointsBet Holdings is now guiding to an earnings loss of -$77-82m in the June half, which Credit Suisse finds achievable although guidance is worse than it had modeled. The company is anticipating net cash outflows of around

-$100m in the second half. Credit Suisse notes revenue should be materially higher in the second half as PointsBet Holdings captures a full six month contribution from four new US states. The broker intends to retain its Hold rating until the company can attain a profitable US market share. Higher operating expenses than expected meant a slight miss for PointsBet Holdings against Ord Minnett's earnings forecast. The company reported that 80% of all North American business was driven by in-house proprietary technology. PointsBet has also shown improvement in its unit economics, the broker notes, with new customers contributing a higher amount to revenue whilst being acquired for a lower cost. In line with seasonality, PointsBet reports that its marketing spend will be significantly lower in the second half from the first.
PNV - PolyNovo	IN LINE	0	0	1/0/0	2.85	2.80	1
Sales momentum continues to be strong for PolyNovo, Macquarie reports, with first half sales up 68% year on year, albeit pre-released. The first sales in Hong Kong and Canada were recorded. New customers were up 43% and the employee count up 42%. The broker sees strong growth in new customer accounts and employee headcount supporting growth over the near-medium term. Macquarie expects the recent approval of PolyNovo's MTX product to help diversify sales mix, with ongoing clinical developments to support growth over the long term.
PPS - Praemium	BEAT	0	0	1/0/0	0.95	1.10	1
Praemium's December-half result outpaced Ord Minnett's forecasts by a decent clip thanks to a strong cost performance, a tax benefit, margin strength and an in-line revenue performance. Management expects its cost-out program to boost operating leverage and the broker is confident margins will keep improving. The broker also sees potential takeover appeal given the recent offloading of the international business.
PME - Pro Medicus	IN LINE	0	0	0/2/1	58.18	48.28	3
Pro Medicus reported in line and Morgans (Hold) finds it hard to uncover any negatives in the result. Citi (Hold) anticipates a stronger second half, expecting the company will benefit from a full six month contribution from contracts implemented in the first half. Pro Medicus has, so far, announced new contracts in the current fiscal year to the value of $10m annually. Both brokers nevertheless find the stock well-priced, which brings us to Ord Minnett, which via Morningstar has began covering the stock as of today. Ord Minnett takes the view that Pro Medicus' product differentiation is unlikely to be durable, that the market is underestimating competitive challenges, and that the company is sharply overvalued. Hence an initial Sell.
PBP - Probiotec	BEAT	0	0	1/0/0	3.30	3.30	1
Morgans upgrades its earnings forecasts for Probiotec following an impressive first half result driven by increased demand for both manufacturing and packing services. Underlying earnings came in slightly ahead of guidance. Management pointed to significant orders on hand to drive second growth. While guidance for FY23 was in line with the broker's prior forecasts, an increasing margin scenario was confirmed.
PFP - Propel Funeral Partners	IN LINE	0	0	1/0/0	5.40	5.50	1
First half results signal a more modest skew to the second half than Propel Funeral Partners has achieved historically, in order to hit expectations. Sales were ahead of Morgan Stanley's forecasts in the first half while earnings proved in line. With the benefit of acquisitions, the broker envisages scope for upward revisions. No specific guidance was provided although the company indicated revenue in January was materially higher than the prior year.
PGL - Prospa Group	IN LINE	0	0	0/1/0	0.83	0.56	1
No real surprises from Prospa Group's first half result given the company's pre-released metrics, with Macquarie finding growth in the company's book a key positive. The company reported originations were up 35% year on year, while gross loans were up 66%. Macquarie notes an uncertain economic environment has seen Prospa raise its provisions to 9.4% of gross loans, and revise its credit risk assessment having seen stress in lower risk grades.
PSI - PSC Insurance	BEAT	0	0	1/1/0	5.03	5.33	2
PSC Insurance's result outpaced Macquarie's (Buy) earnings forecast by 14.8%, thanks to strong organic growth supported by acquisitions. Management upgraded EBITDA guidance by 2.9% excluding the Tysers Retail JV, which management expects will require equity funding. All divisions posted strong growth and margins rose 150bps to 35.2%. UBS (Hold) found the result "solid" at the group level. Distribution was nevertheless the weakest among peers, with the company noting rates are increasing at a lower pace than 12 months ago. UBS interprets this as reflecting a greater casualty mix in the book relative to property classes for which rates are strongest. The broker remains cautious on the outlook given the premium rate pressures and increasing US competition in financial lines.

PWH - PWR Holdings	MISS	0	0	1/1/0	9.90	11.40	2
PWR Holdings slightly missed estimates in its first half, mostly because of higher employee expenses. UBS (Hold) does point out revenue can be lumpy because of the timing of individual contracts. Morgans (Buy) confirms that after allowing for some revenue timing issues, the miss was only slight. The medium-term opportunity across aerospace and defence continues to grow, and management sees extensive organic growth opportunities in the pipeline, across Motorsports and Aftermarket, as well as Aerospace & Defence.
QAN - Qantas Airways	BEAT	0	0	5/1/0	7.69	7.62	6
Brokers are a little confused over why Qantas Airways' share price was attacked after the airline reported a record result and provided upbeat outlook commentary on travel demand into FY24. Perhaps brokers have not flown anywhere lately. Underlying profit came in at the top end of the guidance range due to strong travel demand, high airfares, and cost efficiencies derived from the company's $1bn transformation program. An $800m buyback was announced, although $300m of that will offset dilution from new shares issued for employee retention. Qantas' comment of a new aircraft arrival every three weeks over the next three years appears to have some investors worried, but the vast majority of these are for replacement of an aging fleet, not capacity expansion. Higher capacity may not translate to higher earnings, nevertheless. Domestic demand is expected to now exceed pre-covid levels and international is recovering progressively. Five Buys says it all. Now where's my luggage?
QBE - QBE Insurance	BEAT	1	0	6/1/0	16.12	16.49	7
QBE Insurance's result soundly beat all forecasts, demonstrating strong top line momentum which should carry into FY23. The dividend also beat. Yields appear to be materially expanding, and should provide a strong boost to future earnings. Strong gross written premium (GWP) growth continues, retention remains strong and importantly, as far as Credit Suisse (Buy) is concerned, net earned premium growth has closed the gap on GWP growth. Solid premium rate increases provide comfort in QBE's FY23 GWP growth guidance of mid-to-high single digits. The reinsurance transaction to transfer some long tail portfolios looks sensible, brokers believe, as is exiting much program exposure in North America. Saving more for a rainy day should add to earnings consistency, the catastrophe allowance looks prudent, and capital remains solid. While Ord Minnett (Morningstar) expects higher interest rates will provide a benefit for QBE in the medium term, the competitive landscape means some of the upside will be eroded through competition via premium rates. The broker upgrades to Hold.
QAL - Qualitas	IN LINE	0	0	1/0/0	3.28	3.27	1
Qualitas' earnings met Macquarie's forecasts and management has reaffirmed guidance. Highlights included strong returns and growth from co-investments and warehousing, increased committed funds under management, attractive margins, strong returns on private real estate credit and a strong balance sheet. Management advises private credit offers the strongest opportunity going forward and Macquarie notes a large medium-term pipeline and that the company's track record in managing risk in this environment is playing to its favour.
QUB - Qube Holdings	BEAT	0	1	2/3/0	3.12	3.44	5
Qube Holdings posted a cracker of a result as far as brokers are concerned. The dividend was also a positive surprise. Qube still anticipates a strong outlook for the second half albeit softer than the first, affected by NZ weather and potential for slowing import volumes. Attempts to mitigate inflation have been particularly successful in the logistics division. Ports and bulk have reflected congestion and the inability to fully recover some expenses, leading to revenue ahead of expectations but margins declining. A volume increase from prior investment in the logistics facility and acquisitions are underpinning asset utilisation and returns on capital. A bit rich for Credit Suisse, who pulls back to Hold.

REP - RAM Essential Services Property Fund	MISS	0	0	3/0/0	0.97	0.94	3
RAM Essential Services Property Fund posted a miss of forecasts due to higher management fees and lower net property income. Management reiterated guidance, expecting an improvement in leasing spreads and development coupons on the Mayo and North West developments. UBS would appreciate greater transparency on the rollover of hedges given rising gearing (still within target) and costs. A second half skew is largely a function of timing of the cash benefit of first half rent views, and Credit Suisse expects cash flow to improve in the second half. Multiple opportunities have been identified by RAM and Ord Minnett suspects the REIT's ability to grow earnings will be contingent on gearing and available liquidity.
RMS - Ramelius Resources	BEAT	1	0	2/0/0	1.29	1.28	2
Ramelius Resources surprised with a first half beat on profit. Strong revenue, a beat on production costs, and lower D&A boosted the top line, although a slight miss on corporate costs and exploration expenditure weighed on earnings. Ord Minnett suspects the company has turned a corner as margin and cash flow improvements deliver along with an increasing contribution from the high-grade Penny project. An increase in the cash balance and improving margins, combined with the recent sell-off in the stock, present a compelling valuation argument in the broker's view. The company finished the half with net cash, including leases, thanks to a lower lease balance. Macquarie upgrades to Buy.
RHC - Ramsay Health Care	BEAT	1	0	1/5/0	66.84	69.11	6
Ramsay Health Care's result beat all but one broker. Australian activity trends improved in the half, with surgical admissions up year on year, supported by reduced covid impacts. The UK improved but France was more moderate. While activity levels have improved, elevated staffing costs and an inflationary environment have impacted margins. Macquarie is forecasting improved revenue growth but also ongoing elevated costs, implying only a gradual margin recovery. Ramsay expects a gradual recovery in FY23 and more normal conditions from FY24 onwards, although margins will not be back to pre-pandemic levels. Ord Minnett believes Ramsay is well-placed to service latent demand for higher-margin non-surgical services and benefit from the additional capacity in its development pipeline. Moran Stanley upgrades to Hold, with only Morgans on Buy.
REA - REA Group	IN LINE	0	0	3/1/2	123.14	120.92	7
The consensus broker response to REA Group's result was that the company missed on listings but beat on yields, indicating resilience in an increasingly tough real estate market. Some analysts believe there are indications REA Group might have increased its market share in Australia. US associate Move missed, but we'll net it all out to in-line. Thereafter, a spread of broker ratings reflects varying views on just how far listings volumes will fall in 2023, and management is suggesting caution. December quarter listings proved weaker than expected, and the company faces tough comparables in the June quarter. But management remains confident REA can achieve double-digit yield growth in FY23. Morgans (Buy) sees REA as one of the highest quality franchises under coverage. Macquarie (Sell) feels management is preparing for a downside scenario to be worse than initially thought. Credit Suisse (Buy) expects any listings weakness to reverse in FY23. So take your pick.
RDY - ReadyTech	IN LINE	0	0	0/0/0	4.20	0.00	1
ReadyTech's result met Macquarie's forecasts and the broker suggests the company is on track to meet FY23 guidance. The result appeared solid, with Education in line and Workforce Solutions outpacing, while Government and Justice disappointed at the earnings line due to investment to support recent contract wins. Net debt rose but management advised it remains within its target and reiterated its target of achieving $160m-plus organic revenue by FY26. Macquarie is on research restriction, hence no rating or target.
RKN - Reckon	IN LINE	0	0	0/1/0	1.25	0.65	1
Reckon's FY22 revenue and earnings were in line with Morgan Stanley's forecasts. After allowing for a 57cps special dividend, the broker's target drops to 65c from $1.25. Morgan Stanley "definitely" sees strategic value in Reckon 's business base that is growing HSD and is embedded with core accounting, invoicing and payroll systems. Latent pricing power potential for a partner to provide operating leverage and access to external R&D are attractive attributes, as evidenced by Novatti taking a 20% stake.

RED - Red 5	BEAT	0	1	0/1/0	0.40	0.15	1
While Red 5 delivered a beat, it also raised around $90m in capital (a few days prior to the result) to alleviate balance sheet/working capital issues in the development and ramp-up of the King of the Hills project. Ord Minnettt predicts the company will miss second half production and cost guidance by -4% and -17%, respectively, and with past operational underperformance, suspects market confidence in management may take time to be restored. Should there be further cost overruns or slip-ups, another capital raise may be required. The rating falls to Hold from Speculative Buy.
Redbubble had pre-released key metrics so no surprises on result. Morgans suggests the numbers highlight the difficult operating environment faced by the marketplace, with margins hard to defend when competition is also increasing. Guidance for FY23 marketplace revenue was lowered to "slightly below" FY22 from in line, due to a lower spend by US/UK consumers. Margin assumptions are increased slightly by UBS because of a greater focus on profitable promotional and marketing expenditure. The broker assumes a return to double-digit revenue growth in 2024, which should lead to breakeven in terms of free cash flow.
REH - Reece	BEAT	0	1	0/2/3	14.71	14.10	5
It was a somewhat mixed set of numbers from Reece. Both A&NZ and the US delivered solid earnings growth but the dividend fell short. The company demonstrated its pricing power with what Citi described as surprisingly strong price increases in both regions. Yet across the business, volumes progressively softened during the first half and management is expecting a further contraction in the second. Macquarie is cautious, observing volumes are slowing, particularly in the US, and a deteriorating macro environment suggests downside risk. No specific guidance was provided but the broker notes a drop in inflation would reduce some of the risk, but downgrades to Sell. Morgan Stanley (Sell) agrees further deterioration in volumes amid a more modest price environment is likely to place pressure on earnings, hence the current valuation is hard to justify.
RGN - Region Group	IN LINE	0	1	1/4/1	2.78	2.77	6
Region Group, formerly known as SCA Property Group (SCP), posted a prima facie miss on consensus forecasts but as this was due to timing issues, brokers consider the result in line. Brokers agree the REIT's portfolio of convenience retail centres, anchored by non-discretionary food stores, will prove more defensive in a downturn than large retail formats. But a rise in net property income in the period was wiped out by higher interest costs and this will continue into the second half. If inflation recedes there will be little relief given only 9% of leases are CPI-Linked. Region's defensiveness keeps Citi on Buy but Macquarie downgrades to Sell due to insufficient interest rate hedging.
REG - Regis Healthcare	BEAT	0	0	1/0/0	2.15	2.10	1
Regis Healthcare's first half results were ahead of Macquarie's estimates. This highlights an improved earnings profile, underpinned by higher funding and a recovery in occupancy. Macquarie expects strong earnings growth will be supported into FY24 and FY25. Updates relating to future funding remain a key catalyst.
RRL - Regis Resources	BEAT	0	1	1/1/2	2.02	1.99	4
Regis Resources' earnings mostly beat forecasts. No dividend was declared. FY23 guidance is retained as are expectations of a stronger second half largely driven by the underground operations at Duketon. While Morgans expects this guidance will be met, the broker downgrades to Hold, suggesting management needs to demonstrate a better handle on costs and execute on delivery to build market confidence. Capital expenditure estimates are at least

<tr><td colspan="8">The Reject Shop’s H1 report proved in line with the trading update released in January. With sales and profits ready to increase, the return of dividends is forecast to commence with the release of FY23 financials in August. Morgans (upgrade to Buy from Hold) feels the retailer may benefit from a trade-down by consumers in a tougher consumer environment. Ord Minnett also upgrades. <tr><td colspan="8">If Reliance Worldwide's result was not in line with some broker forecasts, it was only a slight beat. Brokers have acknowledged management's repeated assurances of a second half margin recovery and signs demand is holding up, particularly in the UK. Guidance is for lower second half volumes in all regions, but the margin recovery trend nevertheless remains intact, Credit Suisse (Buy) notes, despite a significant recovery in copper prices. Citi (Sell) suggests the company benefited from a macro environment that wasn't that challenging, but macro impacts may take more of a toll from the second half. This broker sees risk in soft housing exit rates from the US, a potential unwind of unusual plumbing strength in the UK, though Australian Pacific margins may be impacted by better cash conversion and lower inventory.</td></tr>

<tr><td colspan="8">Despite Resimac Group reporting a first half net profit result at the top end of its guidance range, Macquarie (Hold) feels competition saw the company struggle to compete against the majors. Near-term upgrades from the broker are underpinned by lower impairment expenses. First half net profit was ahead of Citi's estimates. Still, this broker agrees the outlook appears challenging, with loan volumes and net interest margins expected to reduce in the second half. On the other hand, the freeing up of equity capital for possible deployment in a new portfolio or adjacent businesses remains a possibility. One stumbling block, as Morgan Stanley (Buy) points out, was a misunderstanding of Spanish tax rules meaning changes have been made for MATSA, leading to a reduction in the broker's base case valuation. Sandfire nevertheless remains the broker's preferred copper play. <tr><td colspan="8">Santos's result missed forecasts due to a cost blowout, but the dividend outpaced. Macquarie notes record free cash flow drove a cut in gearing to 18.9% and the broker is keen for that figure to fall to the lower end of the target range (15%) given the macro backdrop and rising interest rates. PNG's LNG project debt falls every six months and once the selldown occurs, Santos' net debt will halve. Citi highlights guidance demonstrating better operating leverage than forecast, underpinning a balance sheet capable of over US$500m of buybacks in 2023. Even if the oil price fell to US$50/bbl and gearing rose to 25%, the balance sheet would not be compromised, the broker suggests. Citi is concerned with project schedule, capex creep, and the extent management can influence outcomes, but notes the market is not pricing in any value for pre-financial decision projects and only half of Barossa, so the margin of safety comes with "the kicker" of capital returns in the interim. Management noted January sales were up 21% on 2021 and 11% on 2019. Foot traffic was up, and customer visits are up 10m relative to January 2022. Specialty sales productivity has also increased. The drawback is the balance sheet with a relatively high cost of debt. There are levers that could be pulled, Credit Suisee (Hold) notes, but the timing or likelihood of these outcomes is not clear at this stage. Citi (Hold) agrees interest costs remain a key headwind, but given Scentre's strong retail performance, Macquarie believes the company may have an opportunity to sell retail assets and reduce leverage without impacting earnings, and upgrades to Buy.</td></tr>

Service Stream has otherwise apparently brought forward its earnings result release alongside this announcement. Ex of the new provision news, the result is largely in line. FY23 guidance is upgraded to “low to mid-teen percentage earnings growth” from “high single to low double digit”. UBS envisages further deleveraging potential should Seven Group divest its 15% stake in the Crux gas field. WesTrac and Coates guidance appears conservative to Macquarie, with strong operational momentum, positive outlook commentary, and industry tailwinds set up both businesses for strong growth through FY23 and into FY24. macro conditions globally will weigh. Macquarie (Sell) remains concerned about risks to margins as macroeconomic headwinds drag on volumes. Key upside risks mainly on improving demand conditions, which relies on the strength of China. On that basis, and on the recent share price run, Citi downgrades to Sell.
SDR - SiteMinder	IN LINE	0	0	3/0/0	5.23	5.42	3
SiteMinder's first half result was largely pre-released and UBS observes the uplift in revenue and net property additions has accelerated half on half, indicating the business is building momentum. Key growth drivers are on track and further upside is envisaged from monetising intelligence and the Little Hotelier roll-out into the smaller hotels segment. SiteMinder is transitioning from connectivity partner to distribution optimisation platform, Credit Suisse notes, seeking to leverage its data to drive the next iteration of value to hoteliers. The automation of intelligence and analytics to hoteliers should assist in maximising revenue across distribution channels in real-time. Strong momentum in property additions in the second half to date de-risks meeting revenue targets. Ord Minnett sees a company that not only has delivered on its IPO promises, it has equally successfully transitioned away from pure reliance on subscription revenues. Adding a transactional component to the business is progressing well. Ord Minnett is very much in favour of the strategic shift.
SKT - SKY Network Television	IN LINE	0	0	1/1/0	2.75	2.75	2
A solid first half result has allowed Sky Network Television to narrow its FY23 guidance within the existing range, Macquarie (Buy) suggests. Revenue growth was strong, with Streaming the highlight. This is the first period that Sky box revenue grew on the previous six months since 2014. Complementing subscriber growth has been increasing average revenue per user in all segments. Ord Minnett (Hold) disagrees, believing the first half drop in earnings was self-inflicted, with costs from the extended VodafoneTV service to blame, and notes tightened guidance is a downgrade, with more costs necessary until VodafoneTV is shut in March. Macquarie does note programming costs increased by 11%, reflecting rights inflation, English Premier League rights acquisition, increased local sports production costs and one-off events like the Commonwealth Games and the Soccer World Cup.
SKC - SkyCity Entertainment	IN LINE	0	0	2/1/0	2.80	3.20	3
SkyCity Entertainment's first half earnings were materially ahead of last year's covid-impacted period, and in line with Macquarie's (Buy) expectations. The broker sees SkyCity as more protected than listed peers from regulatory reform and tax changes with more than 85% of earnings coming from New Zealand. Credit Suisse (Buy) notes resilient slot revenue across NZ operations with trends continuing into January. Costs are expected to remain elevated as visitation recovers, which may pressure the earnings margin as the reliance shifts away from higher spend per player. Ord Minnett (Hold) observes profitability at the casino operator is now back at pre-covid levels, but also highlights cost pressures, not in the least because of money laundering investigations from authorities. The broker nevertheless agrees SkyCity has a protective regulatory moat in Auckland which means it should benefit from the recovery in NZ tourism.
SIQ - Smartgroup Corp	IN LINE	0	0	2/3/0	5.93	6.22	5
Smartgroup Corp reported a 2022 result at the top end of guidance range set in November, and continues to deliver attractive operating cash flow and dividends. Morgans (Buy) suggests forward earnings now have more certainty as indicated by a solid revenue pipeline and contract opportunities. Lease demand (led by electric vehicles) is expected to build momentum through 2023. Regarding customer demand, leads were up 22% but there is still delayed conversion into novated orders, Macquarie (Hold) warns. Management suggested customer hesitancy is ongoing. Initial signs for digital investment are positive and support a low cost of acquisition that is convenient for customers, but delayed delivery times and labour costs have led to overall cost increases. Morgan Stanley (Hold) believes investors will await further evidence of stabilisation, given a few years of mixed performance from factors outside the company's control.

The result was nevertheless as expected. Sonic's base business is recovering faster than the rest of the market, particularly in Australia, and positive commentary on base margins provides reassurance, suggests Citi (Hold). Morgan Stanly (Buy) notes there seems to be no signals of increasing cost pressures, but Macquarie (Sell) sees risk on the basis of comments delivered by peers. Macquarie (Hold) notes that while TV is weak, radio is performing well, and the broker has a preference for the latter over the former. Management has however pointed to a number of factors which will assist second half growth, including a second half skew. The miss was due a fall in lower-quality earnings and inflation, says Ord Minnett. The broker adds the metric to watch is the higher-quality mobile earnings which account for 48% of gross profit. As a result, Ord Minnett's long-term forecasts remain intact and the broker appreciates the company's strong balance sheet, dividend security and defensive profile, upgrading to Hold.</td></tr>

Breaching a clause could present risks of a restructure to the proposed transaction. SDF - Steadfast Group	BEAT	0	0	3/1/0	6.08	6.34	4
Steadfast Group posted another solid beat, featuring ongoing revenue growth acceleration and rapid inorganic growth execution. Profit was a beat on strong revenues. Organic growth was "exceptional", Credit Suisse (Buy) suggests, via continued market share gains and higher premium pricing. Margin contraction was disappointing but the broker expects a solid second half reversal as the expense growth rate slows now that the post-covid rebound is over. UBS believes agencies stand to benefit from the hardening market, which comprises 45% of Steadfast Group's earnings mix. The broker envisages the top of the revised earnings guidance is achievable. Later in the year, the company will unveil plans for international expansion. Higher commissions, more brokers, more customers and acquisitions are all combining to create a strong platform for the insurance broker, notes Ord Minnett (Hold). With 32 acquisitions finalised this financial year and five scheduled for the June half, Macquarie (Buy) expects the good times will continue to flow.
STP - Step One Clothing	BEAT	0	0	1/0/0	0.50	0.60	1
Sales for Step One Clothing were 9% higher in the first half than Morgans had forecast with the Australian and UK businesses comfortably exceeding expectations. The ratio of marketing expenses to revenue improved to 33.2% from 39.2% year on year, partly reflecting a pullback in US marketing. The broker increases its earnings estimates by 5% in both FY23 and FY24.
SGP - Stockland	MISS	1	0	4/2/0	4.06	4.12	6
Stockland's funds from operations missed forecasts on lower residential settlements and higher overheads, partially offset by stronger commercial development. Guidance implies a stronger second half, but the market will be watching resi settlements closely as the RBA goes about its business. Citi (Hold) sees weakness in the residential market as a concern heading into the typically stronger second half. Due to wet weather delays, management lowered its FY23 residential settlements guidance to 5,500 lots from 6,000. Morgan Stanley (Buy) feels this change overshadows the positives within the first half result from expansion into non-residential earnings streams.
SUN - Suncorp Group	IN LINE	0	0	6/1/0	14.09	14.51	7
Suncorp's result scored a couple of misses, but mostly in-lines, and no downgrades have been forthcoming. Claims costs rose, reflecting higher second-hand car and parts prices, wage inflation and natural hazard costs but premium increases combined with lower operational expenditure, an uptick in investment income, and rising net interest margins for the bank division won the day, the latter supporting the upcoming sale. Strong price rises remain supportive of near-term margins and the bankinsurer appears well positioned for when inflation and bad weather ease. That said, six Buy ratings reflect a valuation discount more so than strong views on the insurance business.
SRL - Sunrise Energy Metals	MISS	0	0	0/1/0	1.95	1.70	1
The first half loss from Sunrise Energy Metals was higher than Macquarie had anticipated, with the broker attributing the difference to higher than expected exploration costs. The company's Sunrise project is development ready with Macquarie predicting first production in late 2027. The broker highlights securing a strategic partner for funding and offtake remains key. Changes to funding assumptions for the project see earnings per share forecasts lift 3%, 19% and 18% through to FY27.
SUL - Super Retail	IN LINE	0	0	3/2/1	12.70	13.15	6
Super Retail's numbers were pre-released although the company revelead a strong start to the second half. It appears consumers are accepting of the higher average selling prices implemented by management, without significantly reducing expenditure. Management noted global supply chains are now fully recovered. But Super Retail will come up against macro headwinds for the consumer in 2023 along with all other retailers. This keeps Macquarie (Hold) cautious. Yet Citi (Buy) feels the company is well placed to negotiate a fall in consumer spending due to a strong balance sheet and ongoing investment in growing the business. Credit Suisse (Buy) suggests domestic leisure

Total market share increased to 34.8% from 31.2%, though this mostly reflects the post-covid return of cash trading which Tabcorp dominates. Management provided several FY25 targets, including digital market share of 30%, opex down -2.3% and a return on invested capital of 10%, more than double from the current. UBS (Hold) remains cautious about fully pricing in these targets. Morgans (Buy) anticipates upside for shareholders should this target be realised, in conjunction with improving opex efficiency. Management took the opportunity to launch TAB24 but Macquarie (Hold) is happy to wait for an improvement in digital gross revenue market share before incorporating projected figures into forecasts. Despite posting flat gross market share in the June half, a -15% fall in digital revenue leads the broker to suspect the company has underperformed its rivals.</td></tr>

UBS also thinks it remains to be seen whether recent price increases in a more rational mobile market will stick longer term. THL - Tourism Holdings Rentals	IN LINE	0	0	2/0/0	4.00	5.15	2
Tourism Holdings Rentals' first half results were in line with recent guidance. Ord Minnett sees an opportunity to buy a stock at the start of what could be an "exciting ride". The timing of the recent acquisition of Apollo Tourism and Leisure was "perfect", with completion coinciding with a re-opening of inbound markets. The broker expects the business will become a dominant force in Australasia. Over the medium to longer term the ability to replenish the rental fleet is the key risk. Morgans believes management's synergy projections from the Apollo merger are conservative and will be upgraded over time.
TPG - TPG Telecom	BEAT	0	0	3/2/0	6.04	6.22	5
TPG Telecom's result edged out most forecasts. Following solid operating trends at Vodafone the company has confirmed the Vodafone price increase implemented at the end of January will now extend to the back-book. This will be positive for revenues but Credit Suisse (Hold) is wary of the impact on subs growth, with Vodafone benefiting in the half both from the Optus data breach and Telstra's price increases. 2023 earnings guidance is in line with forecast, but interest costs are higher. Ord Minnett (Buy) suggests investors are cautious about the impact of price rises given the customer base is conditioned to the bargain offers from Vodafone. Ord Minnett considers the pricing initiative another step towards a more rational market. Guidance for 2023 has been provided for the first time, and is ahead of prior expectations. The main concern Macquarie (Hold) raises is the unhedged debt exposure. Morgans (Buy) notes positive earnings momentum is now evident for the first time since the merger with Vodafone Australia.
TRJ - Trajan Group	MISS	0	0	1/0/0	2.50	2.50	1
Trajan Group delivered a beat on revenue against Ord Minnett's forecast but a miss on earnings due to softer margins. Price increases implemented to offset inflated input costs were largely executed in December quarter, and as such the broker expects the full benefits of to be realised in the second half. FY23 guidance has been increased, and with modest gearing the business is well placed to consider further M&A opportunities, Ord Minnett suggests, having just completed its 12th acquisition.

Given Transurban's broker ratings are split 2/2/2 it is of little surprise brokers reported misses, meets and beats from the company's result, although meets won in the end. There was nevertheless some distortion from the 50% sale of the A25. A better traffic and lower interest cost performance have led to an increase in FY23 dividend guidance to 57c from 53c. The traffic outlook is encouraging, given the WestConnex is to ramp up over the next 18 months with the Rozelle interchange, and the development pipeline near term is attractive. Credit Suisse (downgrade to Sell) nevertheless sees valuation as elevated, and has actually cut its dividend forecasts.
TWE - Treasury Wine Estates	MISS	0	0	4/1/1	14.57	14.28	6
Treasury Wine Estates missed forecasts on softer volumes, which fell -15.4% year on year for Treasury America and -10.5% Treasury Premium Brands. Demand for Luxury wine nevertheless remains strong across all key markets. While providing no formal guidance, management stated the business remains on track to deliver strong growth and margin expansion in FY23. UBS (Buy) notes 19 Crimes has been a prime source of growth in the last five years as the heritage Australian portfolio has been complemented by partnerships with Snoop Dogg and Martha Stewart. Yet, the broker believes the company has not executed well in the US with its Australian portfolio, failing to drive sufficient innovation, and this has amplified the negative impact of the recent slowdown in commercial and lower-end premium wines across the industry. Ord Minnett (Lighten) doubts a June-half recovery will materialise given the December half is seasonally stronger. But Macquarie (Buy) sees medium-term upside to exports and believes there is significant opportunity to further leverage the Frank Family Vineyards assets in the US.

The company registered its first positive profit result and generated its maiden positive free cashflow performance. But Macquarie (Hold) expects margin pressures could come to bear in the second half after a mix shift to lower margin international transactions. Macquarie expects concerns about the economic outlook in 2024 could weigh. Cash flow proved a miss due to higher inventory, and the broker forecasts gross profit per tonne will fall -25% by FY25 (which is still well above FY21 figures). All up, the broker believes the strength in the aluminium business reduces medium-term earnings risk.</td></tr>
<tr><td colspan="8">One of the surprises this season is Wagners Holding Co not updating with a significantly worse performance than was thought possible. This time around, first half results proved in line with the recent trading update. New Generation Building Materials sales outcomes were stronger than expected and Composite Fibre Technologies revenue rose 54% year on year on increased pedestrian infrastructure sales in A&NZ. Wagners implemented a 15% concrete price increase on 1st January. Construction Materials & Services missed estimates slightly, but margin outcomes were further below broker expectations. Although the stock is trading at the low end of its historical valuation range, Macquarie sees little likelihood of a re-rate in the near-term. Management is instigating an urgent review to address strategy and performance.</td></tr>
<tr><td>WPR - Waypoint REIT</td><td>IN LINE</td><td>0</td><td>0</td><td>2/0/1</td><td>2.69</td><td>2.74</td><td>3</td></tr>
<tr><td colspan="8">Waypoint REIT reported in line with guidance. The trust executed -31 non-core asset sales during 2022. Morgans (Buy) had assumed some further sales and capital management initiatives, though management stated this would not be a priority in 2023. Proceeds from non-core asset sales further out will either be recycled into new acquisitions, development opportunities or capital management initiatives. New guidance is for 2023 dividends in line with 2022. Morgan Stanley notes hedging rose during the December half to 93% from 78% at the end of June, providing a steady base for earnings. But the broker retains Sell.</td></tr>
<tr><td>WES - Wesfarmers</td><td>BEAT</td><td>1</td><td>0</td><td>2/2/2</td><td>48.80</td><td>50.20</td><td>6</td></tr>
<tr><td colspan="8">Wesfarmers' result beat forecasts on a surprisingly good performance from Kmart and a decent performance from Bunnings. Kmart appears to have successfully managed down its excess inventory position and grow earnings above expectations. Kmart's value offering should remain attractive to customers as the consumer environment gets tougher. Despite a good result, Bunnings continues to suffer margin compression. Citi (Sell) fails to see why the retailer isn't fully passing on supplier cost increases given its largely unchallenged market position. Ord Minnett anticipates a considerable lag between RBA rate increases and the impact on consumption. Falling property values may hurt sales at Bunnings, but the broker considers this is unlikely to materially change the long-term outlook. A</td></tr>

<tr><td colspan="8">split of ratings suggests differing views on valuation. Macquarie has gone out on a limb and focused on the conglomerate's lithium assets, and now incorporates them into valuation. The cash generation of the lithium assets at current prices significantly change the cashflow of the group, Macquarie notes, as it upgrades to Hold. On Macquarie's projections, Wesfarmers becomes one of the few defensive consumer stocks with significant earnings and dividend upside over the next few years.</td></tr>
<tr><td>WGX - Westgold Resources</td><td>MISS</td><td>1</td><td>0</td><td>1/0/0</td><td>1.25</td><td>1.20</td><td>1</td></tr>
<tr><td colspan="8">Westgold Resources first half was softer than Macquarie had anticipated, with the company reporting an -$11m loss compared to an expected $3m profit, but the broker expects a better second half is to come. Given no change from the company on its full year guidance, Macquarie anticipates a stronger cost performance over the second half but does lower its full year earnings per share forecasts -74%. Macquarie upgrades to Buy.</td></tr>
<tr><td>WHC - Whitehaven Coal</td><td>MISS</td><td>0</td><td>0</td><td>5/1/0</td><td>11.64</td><td>10.28</td><td>6</td></tr>
<tr><td colspan="8">Whitehaven Coal had pre-released its numbers, but a much lower dividend sorely disappointed most. More disappointment followed with future upside partially reduced because of the NSW government's domestic thermal coal reservation policy. Despite hauling in the cash, Whitehaven offered a dividend of 32c, some -30% below consensus forecasts. The board is likely being prudent, as thermal coal prices are now well off record highs. Yet at current spot prices, free cash flow yield is still above 25%, Macquarie (Buy) points out. FY23 guidance has been maintained, with projected volumes weighted to the second half, while costs are trending towards the lower end of guidance. The weather is unlikely to repeat itself in the second half. Management remains positive about the outlook, despite weakening coal pricing, but uncertainty remains from a sharply declining thermal coal price and the implementation of the NSW domestic thermal coal reservation policy (which can still be extended). That said, only UBS does not have a valuation well above the current share price.</td></tr>
<tr><td>WTC - WiseTech Global</td><td>BEAT</td><td>0</td><td>0</td><td>3/1/0</td><td>65.65</td><td>71.08</td><td>4</td></tr>
<tr><td colspan="8">WiseTech Global posted a beat on revenue, earnings and free cash flow, although margins disappointed due to M&A dilution. Management reiterated guidance, so growth may moderate in the June half. WiseTech has demonstrated strong progress towards becoming the operating system for the global logistics industry in its first half, according to Ord Minnett (Accumulate). The broker notes accelerated growth in the core international freight-forwarding, and breakthrough progress in the customs and compliance solution, as highlights of the period. The company has added Kuehne+Nagel as a large global freight forwarder. Macquarie (Hold) believes this could sharply increase revenue from this market, albeit further down the track. UBS (Buy) agrees. Ord Minnett (Accumulate) further expects the company's recent acquisitions of Envase and Blume to prove highly strategic for the company's road and rail solution.</td></tr>
<tr><td>WDS - Woodside Energy</td><td>MISS</td><td>0</td><td>0</td><td>1/4/0</td><td>38.60</td><td>37.20</td><td>5</td></tr>
<tr><td colspan="8">Woodside Energy's 2022 result missed consensus earnings forecasts due to higher than expected royalties and hedging losses. The company expects over US$400m in annual synergies from the merger with BHP's Petroleum division going forward. Guidance for 2023 production and capex was maintained. Morgans (Hold) notes management is willing to temporarily sacrifice its gearing target in order to maintain dividends. Macquarie (Hold) believes Woodside has reached a peak in dividends and envisages a -56% fall in the next reporting period based on a steady 80% payout ratio. Hence, this broker suggests this may be the time the company considers shifting to a free-cash-flow based payout. Indeed the dividend outlook is the most noted factor among broker updates. For the record, Woodside reports growth projects are on track, but logged a reserve downgrade for Wheatstone.</td></tr>
<tr><td>WOW - Woolworths Group</td><td>BEAT</td><td>0</td><td>0</td><td>2/3/2</td><td>34.24</td><td>36.21</td><td>7</td></tr>
<tr><td colspan="8">Woolworths' result comfortably beat expectations, with all divisions except Big W exceeding on earnings. A trading update for February was also above forecast, and while comments from management with respect to the number and magnitude of supplier cost price increases points to upward risks to food inflation, Credit Suisse (Buy) is more positive on supermarkets relative to discretionary retail. Woolworths appears to be back in a more consistent rhythm after several years of poor performance, but the broker is still on watch for possible negatives, including price</td></tr>

competitiveness. Macquarie (Hold) cautions that cost inflation persists in energy, wages and the supply chain. Morgan Stanley notes the unwinding of covid restrictions, and the success in item-based productivity has offset cost inflation, but retains Sell.
WOR - Worley	MISS	0	1	3/0/1	14.65	15.92	4
Worley clearly missed on profit, but brokers disagree on the earnings performance. Margins disappointed and are not expected to improve in FY23. Macquarie (Buy) takes better margin guidance for FY24 as a sign of confidence. Worley remains Citi's (Buy) top pick in the energy sector, with the stock to offer the same leverage to energy-complex demand and inflation hedging, but with less execution risk than exploration and production companies. UBS (Buy) believes the stock offers significant earnings leverage to a potential fourfold increase in global energy investment and decarbonisation. Ord Minnett suggests the market may be overly optimistic about the company's sustainability credentials, and downgrades to Lighten.
ZIP - Zip Co	BEAT	0	0	0/1/2	0.63	0.53	3
Zip Co's first half results were ahead of expectations. Ord Minnett (Hold) notes the company remains committed to being cash positive at the earnings line in the first half of FY24. The broker hesitates ahead of any developments with businesses in the rest of the world, expecting decisions to be made on addressing the cash burn. If divestments occur, this would be a welcome development as these businesses are yet to be cash flow positive. Macquarie (Sell) believes risk of a heavily discounted capital raise remains elevated. Zip Co does expect to see cash inflows derived from business sales, which combined with the potential release of trust investments and fewer funding requirements, could see a raise avoided. UBS (Sell) believes reaching profitability by FY24 will be critical and that managing cash burn in this June half will determine the company's future given liquidity concerns.
